THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXIII. ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 24, 1892. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

GEORGIA FOR HILL.

A Conference of His Friends Held Yesterday Evening.

THEY RALLY TO HIS SUPPORT.

Senator Colquitt Urges Instant and Effective Action.

APPOINTMENT OF A GENERAL COMMITTEE

Which Will Proceed to Organize the Friends of Hill Throughout Georgia. A Rousing Meeting.

The organized democracy of Georgia will stand firm by the organized democracy of New York.

And David B. Hill's chances will not be injured here because of the abuse showered on him by republicans and democratic bolters.

This was made evident by the response made to an invitation to an informal conference, which was hurriedly sent out yesterday morning. The invitations were sent out by:

John T. Glenn,	J. W. Goldsmith,
J. J. Spalding,	W. H. Venable,
Walter R. Brown,	Frank P. Rice,
Fulton Colville,	S. W. Postell,
Charles S. Northen,	M. F. Amorous,
R. D. Spalding,	Clark Howell, Jr.
John Colvin,	James R. Wylie,
John A. Fitten,

The Gentlemen Present.

The designated hour found gathered in THE CONSTITUTION office a party of gentlemen, representative not only of Atlanta's sturdy democracy, but of the commercial, financial and producing elements of the city. Among them was noticed:

Dr. C. E. Murphey,	R. C. Bosche,
Julius Brown,	Thomas L. Bishop,
John D. Cunningham,	Hamilton Douglas,
J. S. Raine,	Dr. E. N. Connally,
W. P. Hill,	John W. Nelms,
Howell C. Erwin,	D. N. Speer,
I. S. Mitchell,	L. J. Hill,
J. M. Stephens,	Albert Howell, Jr.,
A. P. Woodward,	Joseph F. Gatins,
J. J. Duffy,	Hubert L. Culberson,
J. D. Turner,	Frank Potts,
Albert Howell, Sr.,	W. A. Long,
T. W. Meador,	P. J. Moran,
Augustus Long,	J. C. Harris,
W. C. Glenn,	Pat Calhoun.

Called to Order.

The meeting was called to order by the election of ex-Mayor J. T. Glenn as chairman, and of Mr. Charles S. Northen as secretary.

Mr. Clark Howell suggested that the question for discussion should be the feasibility of organizing the democracy of the state in the interest of David B. Hill for the presidency. The organized democracy of New York has spoken with a unanimity which leaves no doubt of its fidelity to Hill. Evidences come from all parts of Georgia that the people want the man who can win, and that they recognize in Mr. Hill the man for the occasion.

"In addition to this," resumed Mr. Howell, "I am in receipt of letters every day showing how the people want Mr. Hill. I am in receipt of letters from twenty-five towns today showing that the people are awaiting the signal to organize. Within two weeks there will be 100 Hill clubs in Georgia. Not only is the daily press of the state gathering around the Hill banner, but the weekly press is dropping into line rapidly. We need but to raise the standard, and the people will rally."

"I have in my possession," said Mr. Howell, "a letter which shows how the people of Georgia are warming up to the advocacy of Mr. Hill. It is from Rev. Walker Lewis, pastor of Trinity church of this city. In it he says:

"My pastoral engagement will not suffer me to be present at the Hill conference this afternoon. I am in heartiest sympathy with any proper movement to nominate Mr. Hill for the presidency, regarding him as the first democrat and statesman of the country.

"Allow me to congratulate and thank you for the great work THE CONSTITUTION is doing to this end. Pushing Hill is paralyzing republicanism."

A Taking Sentence.

"That last sentence is a battle-cry in itself," interrupted Mr. Jack J. Spalding.

Mr. W. C. Glenn favored the organization of Hill clubs throughout the state, so that the movement could work up. There is great interest among the country people, and they should be interested in the movement.

Mr. Hamilton Douglas also favored the working up of the country sentiment, and deprecated any movement which would look like creating a rift in the democratic party. "Let us make plain the fact that with Hill we can win and with Cleveland we will fail."

Dr. Nelms Talks.

Ex-United States Marshal Nelms gave a most interesting talk. Said he: "I was honored by Mr. Cleveland and would be an ingrate were I to work against him. If my single vote could elect him he would have it, provided he would pledge himself to turn republicans out. But he cannot carry New York, while Hill can. He did not turn the republicans out, while Hill will. That's what Hill has been doing in New York, and that's why they hate him so. I am the only allianceman in the room. The alliance will not vote for Cleveland. His nomination would run these people largely into the third party. It would endanger the democracy of the state. The nomination of Hill would hold a large proportion of these people in the party. I am personally for Cleveland, but I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that he cannot be elected, and that Hill is our winning man."

The admissions of ex-Marshal Nelms were made with great feeling, and warm applause greeted his candid view of the situation.

The Party Stands First.

"I cannot," he concluded, "place any man above the interest of the party in which my forefathers were born. That party demands Hill. The only way to nominate him is by work, and that work should be immediate and effective."

The entrance at this point of United States Senator Colquitt was warmly applauded.

"I am an admirer of Mr. Cleveland," said he. "My relations with him, not only during his administration, but since, have been almost confidential. He has lost his hold on New York, and without New York he cannot be elected. We can no more recognize bolters in New York than we could in Georgia. What would you say if New York democrats should say that your state democratic authorities did not know your will, and should undertake to brush it aside? Just so they now regard the attitude of these democrats here who are now presuming to lecture them. The question now before us is one of practical politics—the election of our candidates. I know as absolutely as I live that Hill can be elected and that Cleveland cannot. It is very well to talk about "virtue," "honesty," "purity," etc., but when a funeral sermon is to follow, it takes out all of the unction. We are face to face with a crisis. The salvation of the south is in the election of a democratic president. There are too many issues at stake to play with the result. Hill can be elected. If elected, he will be a democrat all the way through. Now, as to organization. A campaign that is worth winning can only be won by hard work. We must collect our resources, appeal to the people, organize them, and work with vim until the last vote is counted."

The News from New York.

Mr. Pat Calhoun told of the feeling in New York. The democrats there were absolutely devoted to Hill, while Cleveland could not carry the state.

Dr. R. D. Spalding delivered a ringing speech in favor of organization everywhere.

"How a man with a spoonful of brains," said he, "can talk of the availability of Cleveland in the light of recent events, I cannot conceive."

Mr. Clark Howell moved that the chair appoint a committee of fifteen representative Georgians to take charge of general organization, to issue an address to the people and to push the success of democracy and Hill; and that Mr. John T. Glenn be chairman of that committee.

This resolution was adopted, with an amendment by Mr. Jack J. Spalding, that this executive committee should name a special committee of two from each ward of the city of Atlanta, and two from the county militia districts, to work up a public meeting here, and to organize the local Hill Club.

The meeting then adjourned by a rising vote, in which every one present agreed to work vigorously for the coming mass meeting.

Chairman Glenn announces that he will name the committee in two or three days.

Falling in Line.

COVINGTON, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—The Hill boom gathers strength as it grows. Covington alliance is in favor of the election of David B. Hill as president of the United States. This is another straw. The people of Newton county are falling in line for Hill and victory.

ARE FEDERAL OFFICES FOR SALE?

A Report that Wanamaker Offered One to Villard for $100,000.

RICHMOND, Ind., February 23.—William Dudley Foulke, civil service commissioner, was interviewed today concerning a story said to come from Henry Villard, the railroad magnate, to the effect that Postmaster General Wanamaker just previous to the last presidential election approached him with a proposition to place at his disposal the commissionership of the general land office for $100,000, to be used for campaign purposes.

Mr. Foulke at first declined to talk, then wrote this statement:

"I did have a conversation with Mr. Villard in regard to the soliciting of campaign funds by Mr. Wanamaker. This conversation was at the Arlington, in Washington, a few days before the inauguration of Mr. Harrison. Mr. Villard told me of a conversation which he had with Mr. Wanamaker upon the subject, but I do not now feel willing to give for publication any of the details of that conversation without Mr. Villard's consent. It was not stated that the conversation was confidential, but at the same time it was an interview which I do not now feel like repeating for the purpose of publication."

When asked why, as it seemed that Mr. Villard had let the matter out, he refrained from talking. He expressed disbelief in the report that Villard had talked, explaining that he himself told a certain man in Chicago of the matter and he evidently had let the story leak out.

Mr. Foulke intimated that he had incontrovertible evidence to show that Wanamaker is not fitted for the place he holds.

AGAINST FREE PASSES.

Decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the Matter.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—The interstate commerce commission today announced its decision of the case of William H. Harvey against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, involving the giving of free passes and free transportation. The commission decides that the action of the defendant in granting to members of the city council of New Orleans and clerk of that body, on account of their official positions, free transportation as passengers over all or some portion of its interstate lines, violates the act to regulate commerce, and is unlawful.

The recent case of the Boston and Maine Railroad Company is approved and followed, and the order of the commission is that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company forthwith cease and desist from granting free passes or otherwise furnishing free transportation over its interstate lines, except as provided in the twenty-second section of the act.

THE MEMBERS ARE ABSENT.

Both Houses Are Without a Quorum for Business.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—Neither the senate nor the house had a quorum today, owing to the absence of members. As a consequence no business was taken up in either house except of a routine character. It is doubtful now if congress can get into the swing of business until next week.

Against Baby Telegraph Operators.

RALEIGH, N. C., February 23.—[Special.]—The representatives of the Postal Telegraph Company today appeared before the railway commission and urged it to take some steps to secure properly qualified operators to send train orders. It was set forth that many of the operators at the railway stations are mere boys, without proper knowledge of telegraphy, and that that greatly increases the danger to life and property. The commission is urged, if it has the power, to regulate the matter by requiring all such operators to be examined by a competent board, which will grant certificates of proficiency and of character, and by finding any railway not employing such duly qualified operators guilty of neglect. If the board has not this power, it is asked to recommend to the legislature the desired action. The board now has the matter under consideration.

Searching for the Dynamite.

PARIS, February 23.—Some excitement was caused a few days ago in police circles by the receipt of information that a large quantity of dynamite had been stolen from a factory belonging to the state, where that explosive was made with many safeguards as to its manufacture and as to its subsequent storage and disposition. It was immediately concluded that the theft was the work of anarchists, and today the police searched all houses in Paris in a vicinity known to be occupied by anarchists in the expectation of finding the dynamite. The police refuse to divulge the result of their search, and it is not known whether or not they found the explosive.

Cleveland in Detroit.

DETROIT, February 23.—Ex-President Cleveland's special train arrived back from Toledo at 3:35 o'clock this afternoon. Governor Winans and staff, Acting Mayor Coots and the city council were present to officially receive the distinguished guest. A public reception was held at the Hotel Cadeilac, and thousands shook Mr. Cleveland's hand.

Two Children Burned to Death.

PITTSBURG, Pa., February 23.—Two children were burned to death in a fire at McKeesport last night almost within reach of their father, who, in his brave efforts to rescue his little ones, almost perished amid the smoke and flames himself, and it is not altogether certain now that he will live. A third child was also probably fatally burned.

Bishop Fitzgerald Will Talk.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., February 23.—[Special.]—Bishop O. P. Fitzgerald, D.D., of California, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, has accepted an invitation to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the forthcoming commencement of the State university, June 26th.

Suspended Publication.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., February 23.—The Daily Florida Standard, which began publication here in July, 1890, and was the organ of the anti-Call faction in the democratic party, suspended publication today.

THE THIRD PARTY

Will Not Be Able to Rule the Roost in Georgia.

AN EXCITING DAY IN ST. LOUIS,

In Which Congressman Moses Enters His Protest

AGAINST THE SCHEMES OF POST,

Who Never Was a Democrat, but Is a Republican from Illinois, Lately Come to Georgia.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 23.—[Special.]—Post, Elington and Branch control the voice of Georgia in this conference, after a war of words which set the assembly in an uproar.

The affair was a comedy of errors. The third party enthusiasts, in their overmastering zeal, have overreached themselves and made a tactical blunder, which will effectually kill their work, so far as Georgia is concerned, and the odor of unfairness must make it obnoxious with all thoughtful people.

Mr. Moses Breathes Defiance.

Nothing could have been more fitting than the defiant scorn with which Mr. Moses exposed the thing, and threw it back in the teeth of the convention. Mr. Post had declared that at the time of the August convention nine-tenths of the alliancemen of Georgia were in favor of independent action, and Colonel Livingston and Mr. Moses had admitted as much, but urged the postponement of a resolution to that effect until the people should act. He then charged that the purpose of these gentlemen was to deliver the alliance, bound hand and foot, into the hands of the democratic party.

At this, there was a great uproar, and the great assembly lashed itself into fury like the sea in a storm. M. J. Branch, at the top of his shrill voice, made the charge that Livingston and Moses were here to throttle the voice of the masses of Georgia.

It was a trying time for Moses when he rose to reply. He was greeted with ominous sounds of displeasure, and might not have been heard, but for General Weaver's manly appeal for fair play.

"These other brethren have had their inning. Now give Brother Moses a chance," he said.

Moses Mounts a Chair.

Mr. Moses mounted a chair and said in a voice that rang out with defiance:

"Mr. Chairman—If we are to understand that the two gentlemen who are seated to fill vacancies come to vote in the convention under the same instructions as the gentlemen who were appointed by the state alliance of Georgia, then we have nothing more to say. If in good faith they come here to fill vacancies, I, for one, have nothing to say." [Confusion.] I will not proceed if free speech is not in vogue. ["Go on."] I thank you, gentlemen, for your indulgence, and I say that the gentleman who displayed the testimony of the lack of harmony in Georgia, and one of the gentlemen who sat in judgment upon the delegates from Louisiana, Mr. Ellington, do not represent a half dozen men in Georgia, so far as my knowledge goes. They say that we do not represent the alliancemen of Georgia when, as a matter of fact, that gentleman who sat in judgment upon me here today was a candidate before the alliance convention, and was repudiated by the votes of that body. He sat in judgment on the vice president of the state alliance of Georgia" (Mr. Wilson).

At this there were cries of "Sit down, sit down!" and the confusion became so great that the speaker had to suspend.

A negro delegate gained the floor under pretense of making a point of order, and protested against the disturbance. The confusion continued, and Mr. Moses exclaimed in a voice that could be heard above the din:

"If you don't want to hear me, take me off my feet!"

This caught the crowd and they listened to him as he continued his superb defiance in these words:

"You know that Georgia is an alliance state. She has more alliance members in the national legislature than any other state. [Laughter.] You come here to find that the sovereign state of Georgia has not enough delegates to represent her in your convention.

"I Am a Democrat.

"I am not going to deceive you western men. Here is the third party in Georgia. God knows I am not the first man to bring up the political question.

"Is it a crime to be a democrat? Then hang me, if you want to, but I am an allianceman, too."

At this brave utterance the convention gnashed its teeth and drowned the speaker's voice with groans and jeers. At this Mr. Moses exclaimed defiantly:

"The people of Georgia are behind us, this handful of men to the contrary, notwithstanding, and I tell you that the enemies of the alliance in Georgia are eager to hear that Georgia's representatives have been disgraced and turned out of the alliance convention, and the alliance in Georgia when divided here will be divided at home. I would not have republicans quit their party in the belief that Georgia will leave the democratic party, for she won't do it."

A Grotesque Incident.

Here, on the very eve of another eruption of pandemonium, a grotesque incident put the convention in a good humor.

Davis, the tall Texan with the Comanche voice and the Sampsonian locks, rose to the height of seven feet, and, shaking his finger at Moses, said:

"Turn me loose on them and they'll break."

The crowd roared with laughter at this Falstaffian threat and thereafter the scene was less stormy.

Mr. Ellington rose to a question of personal privilege, and said that he was present as a representative of the duly organized constitutional assembly of the National Citizens' Industrial Alliance of Georgia, and he defied any one to prove to the contrary.

"Where did you get your credentials?" said Mr. Moses.

"From that order," said Mr. Ellington.

"From that order in Kansas?" retorted Mr. Moses.

To this Mr. Ellington made some reply, but it was drowned by the babble of voices. He gained the ear of the crowd, and argued that the alliance executive committee had attempted to suppress the voice of the people of Georgia.

Colonel Livingston Appears.

Colonel Livingston rose in the discussion of Jerry Simpson's census resolution, and turned a neat personal point. Referring to the ridicule of his resolution of sympathy pledging relief, he said:

"I understand that I have been jeered at because I was kindly disposed. If you don't want that resolution, you ought to be dumb if you can't say a kind word for it."

In regard to the charge of Post and Branch he said:

"I defy any man to show where I ever said a word or wrote a line about turning the alliance over to the democratic party.

"We need harmony, and advise you to go no further than you can go together. When you get to the point where you can't agree, sit down and stop."

This evidently had reference to a plan which Livingston and Macune have agreed to, and that is that the convention formulate a set of demands, and recommend the members of the industrial orders to vote for the men who will advocate these demands.

Where They Will Stop.

The alliance will insist on stopping there, and if the conference goes further it will enter a protest and send out an address to the people of the alliance. The third party men consent to this on the understanding that when the conference adjourns the delegates will go into a mass meeting as individuals and issue a call for a summer convention on or about January 4th to nominate a ticket. The people's party in that summer convention will adopt the demands here formulated, expecting to catch the alliance votes, but in the meantime a loop-hole of escape will be open to the southern alliancemen, who will not be committed to any party by the action of their delegates in this.

The Result of This Action.

Colonel Livingston admits that it will take some alliance votes out of the old rank in Georgia, but not enough to carry the state for the people's party there, or in any other southern state. The conclusion of the whole matter appears to be that the people's party may carry enough western states to throw the election of president into the house of representatives, where the democrats have a majority.

Mrs. Lease's Big Voice.

Mrs. Lease threw a firebrand into the convention by declaring that if the men were cowards enough to refuse women their right of suffrage, this reform movement would be a grotesque failure. Miss Francis E. Willard followed up with the declaration that she tolerated no sectarianism in religion, no sectionalism in politics and no sex in citizenship. The temperance people were treated with respect, but will hardly get recognition in the platform. The Knights of Labor will introduce a mild reform of the single tax doctrine for a plank in the platform. W. G. COOPER.

THE FOOTBALL BOYS.

Auburn Celebrates Her Victory in Great Style—Class Day.

AUBURN, Ala., February 23.—[Special.]—Cheer after cheer rent the air when the first news reached Auburn Saturday night of the football team's success.

So enthusiastic were our boys that notwithstanding the drenching rain they stood for half an hour firing a salute for each member.

On Monday morning the cadets and faculty gathered in the chapel and after a few congratulatory remarks from the president and others, the college yell was given several times for the team and every one else, beginning with the college president and ending with the mascot of the team.

Class day was celebrated yesterday at the Agriculture and Military college with very appropriate and interesting exercises by the senior class. At 11 o'clock the chapel was full of anxious spectators ready to listen to the exercises, the programme of which was as follows:

Captain W. F. Feagin, of Clayton, president of the class, introduced the speaker in his pleasant manner.

1. Was the poet, Lieutenant G. A. Thomas, of Montgomery, who delivered in a very happy style his poem abounding in wit and humor.

2. Came the historian, Mr. R. D. McAllister, of Atlanta, and well did he tell how the class of '92 had grown from "rats" to the dignity of seniors.

3. Was the orator, Mr. L. W. Payne, of Auburn, who delivered his speech in very fine style. He spoke of the various thoughts suggested by the anniversary of Washington.

4. And last, but among the first in intrest, was the prophet, Mr. L. P. Heyman, of West Point, Ga. He pictured each member of his class twenty years hence, and so well did he do it that he elicited applause after applause.

The audience then withdrew to the campus where the seniors planted a tree and sung their song composed by Mr. Heyman especially for this occasion, the chorus of which is as follows:

In this class there is embodied
All the wisdom of a sage,
To the future senior classes
What a glorious heritage.

Last night a large audience gathered in the college hall to hear the oratorical contest between the Wirt and Websterian societies. W. P. Feagin and H. L. Jones represented the Wirts and S. S. Strong and L. W. Payne the Websterians. The Wirts were successful.

HUMAN BONES FOUND IN A CIGAR.

A Smoker Comes to a Determination to Quit the Weed.

HOMER, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—One evening last week a colored man in the employ of Dr. Lockhart was sitting in his room enjoying a quiet smoke, when the flavor of his cigar became so extremely nauseous that it almost made him sick. The cigar too, burned with some difficulty. On making examination he found a hard substance in the end of the cigar which he drew out and to his utter surprise found to be a long piece of bone. He at once became alarmed and, taking the bone, proceeded to have it examined by a doctor, who declared it to be a human bone, apparently, from the front portion of the shin bone, which from its appearance and texture it closely resembled. The darky was now struck with horror and amazement. "Is it possible," he exclaimed, "dat I's been a-smokin' de bones of some poor fellow ground up in a 'backer mill?' I tell you I wants people to know dat I's done quit smokin' ef I get over dis."

Father Hennessey's Good Work.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—St. Francis Xavier church, Rev. Father Hennessey pastor, has still a small debt hanging over it and the members of the church are determined to relieve the debt by organizing the Lyric Club to hold monthly meetings at the residences of different members, indulging in music, reading and other light forms of entertainment. The members will expect their non-Catholic friends to mingle with them, and feel satisfied they will realize sufficient funds to place the church out of debt. Since Father Hennessey was sent to Brunswick his personal efforts have accomplished wonders in raising funds to meet obligations made by the church previous to his pastorate. His congregation appreciates that work, and will endeavor to help him.

A Depot for Brunswick.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Brunswick's chances for a union passenger depot are good. Communications addressed to the Brunswick and Western and the East Tennessee officials, by the board of trade and city council, brought Superintendent Murphy, of the East Tennessee, here today to confer with Superintendent Hames, of the Brunswick and Western, on the matter. Tonight Superintendent Hames left the city to meet the officials of the Plant system for a conference on the subject. Mr. Plant is expected here next week to arrange preliminaries for building the depot.

A Mysterious Disappearance.

AUGUSTA, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—S. Sternberg, a dry goods merchant of this city, this afternoon reported the mysterious disappearance of J. Kitai, a Russian, whom he started out on the road last December to peddle goods. Katai was last heard from December 14th, when he wrote from Wards, S. C., for more goods. Sternberg believes Katai has been foully murdered and his body secretly buried. He does not believe the man has acted wrong.

THE GUILTY WOMAN

Now Tries to Save the Life of Her Aged Partner,

WHO HAD PUT HIS WIFE TO DEATH.

A Remarkable Change in the Baker Trial.

MRS. GILMER'S OLD LOVE RETURNS,

And She Pursues Tactics Calculated to Break Down the Trial of Dr. Baker.

BRISTOL, Tenn., February 23.—[Special.—The famous Dr. Baker is on trial for wife poisoning. The 100 witnesses are all well. Twenty-nine men come from Batetourt county, from which a competent jury of twelve was selected. The trial began today. The case has taken a different turn. Mrs. Gilmer the paramour and accessory to the awful crime has seemingly taken the law into her own hands, and tried to run the court for a while.

A New Attorney.

To begin with, she sent for Hon. Frank Barr this morning, a prominent lawyer, but one who has never had any connection with the case, to advise with her. They remained in his office for a considerable time, delaying the court. Everybody was waiting impatiently, some asking: "Where is the fair 'Cleopatra' who is to do important testifying this morning?" She was then asking Mr. Barr: "Is it my Christian duty to testify against Dr. Baker, when I was implicated, and when indicted as his accessory."

At last she arrived in the courtroom. The eager throng drew a breath of relief. The first proceeding was sensational, one which has never been heard of before in this country. The fair witness, faultlessly and magnificently dressed, took her seat. The court had convened and the prosecution was preparing to question her, when Barr took a seat beside her and addressed her. Then the five able lawyers exchanged looks of consternation and surprise. One of them jumped up and asked the court to stop that man and have him ejected. A discussion arose which bordered on madness. Barr swore that he was her advising counsel and proposed to protect her. Finally he was compelled by the sheriff to come from behind the bar, and the questioning began.

Her Final Answer.

Mrs. Gilmer answered till this was asked:

"On the day after Dr. Baker buried his wife and came to see you, what did he say? How did he look—what were his actions?"

At this she broke down and refused to answer. She said to answer that question would be to bring disgrace and infamy down upon her.

Then a discussion among the ten lawyers began, which lasted till 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The prosecution argued (and she was their witness) that she must answer, as it would only disgrace and not criminate her, and that until a question was asked that would criminate her, if she responded, she must talk. The defense took different grounds. Mrs. Gilmer, who testified to suit the prosecution last summer, now attempts to override them. In fact, she was a prisoner then, and now she is free and wants Baker free. She has scored on the prosecution.

The judge finally ruled that she must answer, and she burst into sobs, but responded, "He took me in his arms, caressed me and said, 'Now, my darling, you are mine forever.'"

At this point she was taken very sick and had to be removed from the courtroom. She said the prosecution had imposed on her from the beginning. At this point Colonel Simmons arose and said, "Then I withdraw from the case," and he walked out.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Assassination of General Enriques in Guatemala.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 23.—A special cablegram from Salvador to the Associated Press under date of February 23d, states that General Enriques was killed today by a body of Guatemalan soldiers, together with a number of companions, near the city of Zacapa, Guatemala, near the Honduras coast. Enriques had been unanimously proclaimed dictator of the constitutional party of Guatemala, and had, in consequence, incurred the active hostility of President Barillas, who alarmed the public by announcing that Enriques was at the head of an insurrection directed against the present government. Barillas ordered Enriques to present himself to the authorities of Zacapa. Enriques proceeded at once toward that city, accompanied by his two brothers and a party of friends. A company numbering one hundred soldiers, lying in ambush on one of the roads out of the city, fired upon General Enriques and others of his party, killing all of them. The cablegram attributes the attack and the killing of the party to orders issued from the capital, and imputes the deed to the Guatemalan government.

ANOTHER STRANGE CASE.

Dr. Breedlove Commits Suicide on Account of Separation from a Friend.

ST. LOUIS, February 23.—Dr. Charles T. Breedlove, of Baltimore, committed suicide in the Hurst hotel, at 8 o'clock this morning, by shooting himself in the head. In the same room and not far from Dr. Breedlove stood Isaac Judson, a teacher in the high school of St. Louis, the man for whom he committed the deed. Breedlove reached this city last Monday, and was to leave today in company with Judson, but missed the train.

Judson returned to Breedlove's room, and found a letter lying on the dressing table, addressed to himself. He was in the act of reading it when he was startled by the report of a revolver, and, looking up, saw Breedlove falling to the floor with the smoking pistol clutched in his right hand. He died almost instantly.

The letter, which was addressed to Judson, reveals a peculiarly morbid state of mind. Breedlove says he finds it impossible to live without Judson and rather than be separated from him he ends his life. Breedlove was a physician in Baltimore and his parents live at Fort Smith, Ark. At the instance of friends, the body was removed to the morgue and will be shipped to Fort Smith for burial. A locket suspended from the suicide's neck contained a picture of Judson.

AT THE AGNES SCOTT.

How Washington's Birthday Was Celebrated at That Institution.

DECATUR, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Few educational institutions in the south could have given a more creditable and accurate, as well as deeply interesting, historical entertainment than that given Monday night by the United States history classes of the Agnes Scott institute, at Decatur, under the direction of the accomplished teacher and historian, Miss L. A. Field, assisted largely by Miss Valeria Fraser, teacher of physical culture.

The programme was admirably arranged and charmingly executed. All the parts were entirely historical, even to the music, each illustrating in a striking manner some prominent incident in the early history of our country, and of the Washingtonian period. The entertainment was of unique and pleasant interest, also, because the 22d of February was the birthday of Colonel George W. Scott, the founder of the institute, who was also named for the father of his country.

All of the recitations, with an exception or two, were original, being composed for the occasion by Miss Field, and in a few instances by the pupils. The pupils showed wonderful familiarity with their subjects, illustrating a commendable degree of thoroughness with which the history of our own country is taught in the Agnes Scott.

The audience crowded the beautiful lecture room of the institute beyond its capacity and overflowed into the spacious halls and parlors. A large number of Atlanta patrons were in attendance, returning to the city on the late dummy.

The hall was beautifully decorated with plants and bunting, the flag of the United States being prominent everywhere.

The institute is especially grateful to the Atlanta Rifles, the O. M. Mitchell post, Grand Army of the Republic, and the Gate City Guard for the use of their beautiful and elegant silken flags.

The programme furnished a pleasant and instructive entertainment:

Brunswick's Military.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Brunswick's military organizations—the Riflemen and Light Horse Guards—appear satisfied with the location of the encampment at Griffin. Interest in military circles is being revived, and the rolls of both companies show a good increase of late in numbers. The Light Horse Guards now have forty-five men enlisted and the Riflemen forty. Captain Jordan S. Thomas commands the Light Horse Guard and Captain A. C. Wilcoxson the Riflemen. Both are well liked by their men, and contention in the ranks is unheard of.

The Guard are noted for their social entertainments, and yesterday gave fan exhibition saber drill for a gold medal, and wound up the day with a brilliant ball. Commencing Thursday the company will be divided into squads of one non-commissioned officer and four men, to drill for a prize of $100, $50 of which will be donated by Colonel W. W. Gordon, of Savannah. The other $50 will be raised elsewhere. The drill will take place several months later, the five winning men to receive $20 each.

The Brunswick Riflemen are enthusiastically preparing for the inspection by Lieutenant Satterlee. They will bear good inspection, and maintain their reputation as a first-class company.

Answered to Roll Call.

MARIETTA, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—There was a little incident at the Presbyterian church the other night that disturbed somewhat the solemnity of the occasion for a moment. The colored sexton brought his little boy, named John, about six years old along with him, in order to have company on his return home after the services. The little boy went up in the gallery and went to sleep. Rev. Mr. Patton stated that his text was from the "third chapter of John." At this, the little boy awoke from his sleep, and thought his father down stairs was calling him, so he stuck his head over the gallery and answered: "Sir!" The smile that spread over the audience can better be imagined than described.

Kissing Comes High.

PARROTT, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Recently a negro man and woman "hugged" each other, in broad daylight, on one of the streets of Parrott. They were taken in cuarge by the marshal of the town and lodged in jail. The negro man paid his fine of $5 after a confinement of a little while, but the negro woman remained in jail all night, when the next morning she paid her fine of $5, and was liberated. Kissing costs something in this little town.

Never Saw a River.

FORT GAINES, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—A man about fifty years old was here yesterday, who said that he had never seen a river in his life and was anxious to see one. He was shown the direction to the Chattahoochee. A few hundred yards off ran the river, almost in sight, and he was too lazy, or too indifferent to walk to see it, and he was neither drunk or crazy.

BISHOP OF GEORGIA.

Rev. C. K. Nelson Will Be Consecrated as Such Today,

WITH MOST IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES.

A Number of Bishops and Distinguished Clergymen Here to Take Part in the Consecration—The Programme.

Today marks a great event in the history of the Episcopal church in Georgia—the event of a generation.

Rev. C. K. Nelson will be consecrated as bishop of Georgia at 10 o'clock.

Everything is in readiness. The attending bishops and clergy have arrived.

The consecration will be the first one held in Georgia in twenty-two years, and the second one ever held in the state. Great interest is felt in this important event by people of all denominations, and especially of the Episcopal faith.

The ceremonies attending the consecration will be imposing and impressive. Thousands will be eager to witness it, but many will necessarily be disappointed. The front seats in the church will be reserved for the visiting clergy and laity, and delegations from the various Episcopal churches in the diocese. The remaining seats—about five hundred in number—will be free to the public.

The ceremonies of the consecration will begin at 10 o'clock, but the church will no doubt be filled long before that hour.

The reserved seats will only be held until half-past 10 o'clock this morning. If they are not filled by that hour by those for whom they are reserved, they will be thrown open to the public.

The ushers are C. A. Read and W. H. Scott, rom St. Luke's; Colonel T. E. Screven, from St. Philip's; Mr. Nelson F. Tift, of Albany; Mr. N. H. Trezevant, of Marietta, and Mr. Seaton Grantland, of Griffin.

Some slight changes in the original programme will be made, owing to the unavoidable absence of Bishop R. H. Wilmer, of Alabama, who was to officiate as presiding bishop.

The committee having charge of the consecration has selected Bishop Quintard, of Tennessee, to act as presiding bishop, in the absence of Bishop Wilmer.

The Bishops Who Take Part.

The officiating bishops will be as follows:

Consecrator, Bishop Quintard, of Tennessee; co-consecrators, Rt. Rev. Theodore Benedict Lyman, D.D LL. D., bishop of North Carolina, and the Rt. Rev. Leighton Coleman, S.T. D., LL. D., bishop of Delaware.

The sermon will be delivered by the Rt. Rev. Nelson Summerville Rulison, assistant bishop of central Pennsylvania.

Bishop-elect Nelson will be presented to the presiding bishop by the Rt. Rev. George William Peterkin, D.D., bishop of West Virginia, and the Rt. Rev. Courtlandt Whitehead, D.D., bishop of Pittsburg.

Attending Presbyters—Rev. Chauncey C. Williams, of Augusta, and Rev. James G. Miningerode, of Louisville, Ky.

Master of Ceremonies—Rev. Robert S. Barrett, D.D., dean of St. Luke's.

Programme of the Day.

The bishops and clergy will meet in St. Andrew's Brotherhood room, underneath St. Luke's cathedral, at half-past 9 o'clock this morning.

They will form in a procession and march into the church at 10 o'clock promptly.

They will enter the west door of the cathedral singing:

The church's one foundation
Is Jesus Christ, her Lord.

After the bishops and clergy are all seated; the communion service will be begun, conducted by the presiding bishop.

When this service is over, selections from the scriptures will be read by two of the bishops present.

Then the consecration sermon will be delivered by Bishop Rulison, of central Pennsylvania. Bishop Rulison is described as being one of the ablest preachers of the Episcopal church, and a great effort may be expected of him today.

The Presentation.

After the sermon the bishop-elect will be presented. He will be presented by Bishop Peterkin, of West Virginia, and Bishop Whitehead, of Pittsburg. The presenting bishop will say to the presiding bishop:

Reverend father in God, we present unto you this godly and well-learned man to be ordained and consecrated bishop.

Presiding Bishop Quintard will call for testimonials. The testimonials will be read as follows: Rev. F. F. Rees, secretary of the convention, will read the certificate of election; Rev. W. C. Hunter of Columbus, president of the standing committee, will read the certificates of assent of the standing committee, and the certificates of assent of the bishop; Rev. Robert S. Barrett will read the order of consecration and authorization by the presiding bishop.

After the reading of the testimonials the oath of office will be sworn.

The Bishop's Oath of Office.

The oath is as follows:

"In the name of God, amen. I, Cleland Kinloch Nelson, chosen bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, in the diocese of Georgia, do promise conformity and obedience to the doctrine, discipline and worship of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States of America. So help me God, through Jesus Christ."

This is followed by a short prayer. Then the litany will be sung by the congregation.

The examination of Bishop-elect Nelson is next on the programme. The examination will be conducted according to the ritual, and the questions will be propounded by the presiding bishop. A number of questions are included in the examinations, all of which are put down in the ritual, with their answers.

After the examination is concluded Bishop Nelson will robe himself in the bishop's habit and the "Veni, Creator Spiritus," will be sung; Bishop Nelson kneeling and the bishops kneeling over him.

After the singing Bishop Quintard will lead in prayer.

The Laying on of Hands.

Bishop Nelson will then kneel and the presiding bishop and other bishops present will go through the prescribed form of laying on hands.

As Bishop Quintard lays his hands on Bishop Nelson's head he will say reverently:

Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a bishop in the church of God now committed unto thee by the imposition of our hands in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, amen. And remember that thou stir up the grace of God, which is given thee by this imposition of our hands; for God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power and love and soberness.

When this impressive ceremony is through with, the presiding bishop will present the bishop-elect with a Bible, in a short talk.

The communion service is the last thing on the programme before the benediction. The bishop-elect, the clergy, and others will partake of the communion.

A collection for diocesan missions will be made at the conclusion of the consecration services.

The service will end about 1 o'clock. The bishop and party will at once repair to the Kimball house, where they will take dinner.

Reception Tonight.

A reception will be given to Bishop Nelson and the visiting bishops tonight at the executive mansion by Governor Northen.

The reception will be from 8 to 11 o'clock, and will be one of the largest ever given in Atlanta.

The ladies in charge of this reception are Mrs. R. S. Barrett, Mrs. N. P. Black, Mrs. E. L. Connally, Mrs. W. M. Dickson, Mrs. T. T. Dickson, Mrs. George R. DeSaussure, Mrs. S. Y. Tupper, Mrs. W. D. Smythe, Mrs. Ed C. Peters, Mrs. S. D. Harwood, Mrs. George M. Traylor and Mrs. A. H. Locke.

The committee on arrangements will receive and introduce the guests to the bishops. This committee is composed of the following gentlemen: Rev. W. C. Hunter, Rev. T. C. Tupper, Rev. R. S. Barrett and Messrs. Z. D. Harrison and Thomas C. Walker.

The Guests Arrive.

The committee on arrangements had secured eighty rooms at the Kimball house to be used by the bishops and visitors who came to attend the consecration.

Bishop Howe, of South Carolina, was the first to arrive. He came in at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning and went at once to the Kimball.

The next party to arrive came in over the East Tennessee, arriving here at 2:42 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This party came in on the private car of Superintendent H. S. Goodwin, of the Lehigh Valley railroad.

The party consisted of Mrs. H. S. Goodwin and Miss Goodwin, Miss Lyre, of South Bethlehem; Rt. Rev. Courtlandt Whitehead, of Pittsburg; Rt. Rev. N. M. Rulison, of South Bethlehem; R. N. Cleaver and wife, and N. H. Chandler, of South Bethlehem, Pa.

The party went to the Kimball and were given rooms reserved for them.

The next party came in on the vestibuled at 4 o'clock. Only the Rt. Rev. Leighton Coleman, D.D., bishop of Delaware, and Mr. J. B. Linderman and wife, of South Bethlehem, Pa., came on this train.

Rt. Rev. A. O. Watson, of Wilmington, N. C., bishop of North Carolina, came in at 10 o'clock, accompanied by his wife.

The Bishop-Elect Arrives.

Bishop-elect Nelson arrived in Atlanta at 10:45 o'clock last night, over the Richmond and Danville. He came in Mr. R. P. Wilbur's private car. Mr. Wilbur is the son of the president of the Lehigh Valley railroad.

A party of distinguished Pennsylvanians accompanied Bishop-elect Nelson and wife.

The committee on arrangements was at the train to meet the party.

The party was composed of:

Bishop-elect Nelson and wife, Dr. R. A. Lamberton, president of the Lehigh university, and wife, of South Bethlehem, Pa.; Mr. R. H. Wilbur and wife, R. P. Linderman and wife, of South Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Coppee and Miss Gummere, of South Bethlehem, Pa. Miss Coppee is a daughter of Professor Coppee, formerly a Savannahian, who was for a long time professor of English literature in the State University of Georgia. Professor Coppee is now a professor of the Lehigh Valley university, of South Bethlehem, Pa.

The bishop's party was escorted to the Kimball by the committee, and assigned to the best quarters in the hotel. Bishop Nelson was given room 108.

A large number of callers immediately crowded in upon Bishop Nelson and party, and although greatly fatigued by his long journey, he received them all pleasantly.

Notes from Brunswick.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Superintendent Waters, of the Brunswick Brewing Company, will be succeeded soon by L. Loback, of New York, a practical brewer.

The Pardon Came Too Late.

COLUMBUS, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—The pardon signed yesterday by Governor Northen, granting Bert Dowell his liberty, arrived here too late. Five minutes before Sheriff Burris arrived at the jail with the papers the prisoner had died. Dowell was undergoing a year's sentence for running a blind tiger. He died of dropsy.

THE LITTLE GIRL DYING.

A Careless Driver Runs a Dray Over a Fair Little Child.

For two hours last night the entire police force was carefully and constantly on the lookout for Isaac Woods. He was finally found and immediately locked up.

He is an old, gray-headed negro, but seemingly heartless and without sympathy even for the victim of his own carelessness.

A little girl, four years old, a bright, healthy, pretty little one, was lying last evening surrounded by a physician and anxious parents. She was dying and Woods was responsible for it all.

About 5 o'clock last evening a crowd of children were gathered down on Gilmer street, near Courtland avenue. One of the happy group was little Katherine Askam, the daughter of Dr. Askam, the well-known druggist. She and one of her boy playmates started across the street together.

A dray was rattling down Gilmer, but it seemed entirely safe to dart over to the other side of the street. Clasping hands, the children broke away toward the opposite sidewalk. The dray came on noisy and exceedingly speedy. The driver seemed in a hurry, and didn't hold up in the slightest. Little Katherine Askam had reached the middle of the street when she was caught by the team and knocked down by the horse.

The animal trampled on her as she lay on the ground, and both wheels passed entirely over the child's body.

Woods saw what had been done, and then instead of stopping, drove on all the more rapidly as though nothing had happened. Several boys were standing near when the accident occurred, and one of them rushed into the street and tried to check the horse.

The driver yelled to him to take care or he, too, might get run over. The little fellow saw that he couldn't do anything and tried to get the negro's name. The old man lashed his horse, and with a mocking laugh went rattling down the street.

A crowd of enraged boys went running after him. They saw the driver stop in the rear of Ogletree, Robinson & Boyd's mill, and hurriedly went to the policeman on the beat and told him of it.

The little girl was picked up after the accident unconscious. Blood was flowing from a dozen cuts, and her curls lay in a stream of the ugly fluid. She was fearfully bruised, and as quickly as possible was carried to her home at 81 Gilmer street, and Dr. Askam quickly summoned from his drug store. He found the child suffering greatly, and in a very critical condition. She was thought to be internally injured, and it was easy to see that her chances of recovery were not bright.

Last night little Katherine was dying and her death was looked for at almost any moment. She was very badly cut by the horse's feet and her little playmates stood about the house vowing vengeance in their childish way at the driver.

It was fortunate for him that he did not appear in that neighborhood. About 7 o'clock Patrolmen Sheppard and Ethridge found the man and arrested him. He gave his name as Isaac Woods and he was locked up and booked on the charge of careless driving.

His trial will await developments in his fair little victim's condition. If she dies, as seems to be altogether probable, it will undoubtedly go hard with him.

And matters may not end with a mere trial in court.

A Minister's Cure

A MINISTER AND HIS LITTLE BOY CURED OF OBSTINATE SKIN DISEASES BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES. PRAISES THEM IN THE PULPIT HOME, AND IN THE STREET.

Cured by Cuticura

For about thirteen years I have been troubled with eczema or some other cutaneous disease which all remedies failed to cure. Hearing of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I resolved to give them a trial. I followed the directions carefully, and it affords me much pleasure to say that before using two boxes of the CUTICURA, four cakes of CUTICURA SOAP, and one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I was entirely cured. In addition to my own case, my baby boy, then about five months old, was suffering with what I supposed to be the same disease as mine, to such an extent that his head was coated over with a solid scab, from which there was a constant flow of pus which was sickening to look upon, besides two large tumor-like kernels on the back of his head. Thanks to your wonderful CUTICURA REMEDIES, his scalp is perfectly well, and the kernels have been scattered so that there is only one little place by his left ear, and that is healing nicely. Instead of a coating of scabs he has a fine coat of hair, much better than that which was destroyed by the disease. I would that the whole world of sufferers from skin and blood diseases knew the value of your CUTICURA REMEDIES as I do. They are worth ten times the price at which they are sold. I have never used any other toilet soap in my house since I bought the first cake of your CUTICURA SOAP. I would be inhuman, as well as ungrateful, should I fail to speak well of and recommend them to every sufferer. I have spoken of them, and shall continue to speak of them, from the pulpit, in the homes, and in the streets. Praying that you may live long, and do others the same amount of good you have done me and my child, I remain, yours grate fully.

FAIRLY BOOMING.

Work on the World's Fair Is Progressing Rapidly.

THE WOMEN ARE GROWING ENTHUSED.

Governor Northen More Determined Than Ever to Carry Georgia to Chicago—Mrs. Felton Coming Friday Night.

World's fair work is on a great boom in Georgia now.

Every day and every mail bring dozens of letters from the people all over the state to Governor Northen, who is chairman of the state committee with this work in charge. They are encouraging letters, too, and with everything considered it becomes more and more evident as the days go by that the south's Empire State is going to be abundantly advertised with one of the largest and most varied exhibits at the big fair.

Georgia is one of the thirteen original colonies; Georgia is one of the great white columns that stand thirteen in number at the very entrance gates to the Columbian exposition. Georgia is the state of all the south's best states that can put an exhibit at Chicago calculated to catch the eyes of the civilized world and draw capitalists southward with thousands to invest.

Governor Northen has thought all this over a thousand times; he has studied the matter carefully, and the more he thinks about it all, the more he is determined to push the great work on to glorious success.

The Women Enthused.

All the women of Atlanta are growing enthusiastic with their increasing interest in the meeting to be held in the hall of the house of representatives next Friday night.

Mrs. Felton will come to the city that night and will speak before the ladies of Atlanta. She is at the head of the great committee of women from Georgia to work up an exhibit for the state, and the object of her visit to Atlanta is to speak on the necessity of hastening the work that is before this committee.

It is important that every one interested in seeing Atlanta and the great state of Georgia represented in Chicago, should be present to hear Mrs. Felton's speech Friday night.

There will be several other speakers there besides Mrs. Felton, and the promise is fully given that this meeting is going to do much towards promoting the interests of the state along this line.

The Fulton County Commission.

The Fulton county board for furthering this work will meet in the governor's reception room at the statehouse Friday night, and will confer with Mrs. Felton with reference to advancing the cause here in Atlanta and Fulton county.

It is very urgent that every member of this Fulton county board should be present that night, as matters of serious import will come under consideration.

After the conference is over the committee will go in a body to the hall of representatives to hear Mrs. Felton speak.

Mines and Mining.

The governor has appointed a good many more men on the committee of mines and mining from Georgia to the world's fair.

The new members of the committee are as follows: Captain Thompson, Moses Martin, W. T. Smith and W. J. Morley, from Buford; Allen D. Candler, W. F. Findley, A. M. Cochran, John Martin, of Gainesville; J. D. Caldon, A. J. McBride and L. S. McBride, of Atlanta; R. A. Connell, Wigham; Dr. M. D. Phillips, Clarksville; R. Asbury and W. H. Courtney, Pleasant Retreat; G. W. Slaton and J. J. Kimsey, Cleveland; J. H. Nichols, Nacoochee.

This committee is requested to meet tomorrow at the capitol in the hall of the house of representatives.

Mr. Julius L. Brown of this city is chairman of the committee, and will preside over the meeting today.

The Supreme Court.

Arguments in the case of the Georgia, Carolina and Northern, and the Georgia railroads were finished yesterday before the supreme court.

All the points to further the claim of the Georgia road, that this company could not afford to have the land wanted by the new road taken from them, and to attack the charter of the Georgia, Carolina and Northern, were brought out by the attorneys for the Georgia road.

The attorneys for the new road brought out all the points to strengthen and protect their charter, and to advance their claim to condemn the land they want in order to get into Atlanta.

The decision will be rendered by the supreme court in a few days.

A great many lawyers from Columbus were in Atlanta yesterday to attend the supreme court, the Chattahoochee circuit being docketed.

Lieutenant Satterlee Inspecting.

Lieutenant Satterlee has been out of the city for more than a week inspecting the volunteer forces throughout the state.

He is now down in Brunswick and will work back by Savannah and Augusta.

He finds many of the companies belonging to the state force of volunteers in excellent shape, though there are some that are not so well kept up.

The interest in military matters, of course, is increasing every day now as the encampment season approaches.

Colonel Seaton Grantland, of Griffin, was in the city yesterday. He is the man who has charge of the work of shaping up the encampment site for the military advisory board. He has just put a large force of forty chaingang laborers to work leveling and grading the grounds, and will go at once about putting up the barracks.

A PECULIAR CASE.

A Negro Loses His Mind on Account of Being Arrested.

There's a peculiar case of insanity at the Fulton county jail. And, although the victim is a negro, the story is not without a tinge of sadness.

The insane prisoner is Tom Wilson, a well-known colored man, about forty-five years of age.

A few months ago his son was arrested on the charge of burglary, and he furnished bond and the boy went free. Before the time for his trial came around the young negro skipped, leaving his father in the lurch. The bond was forfeited, but Wilson was unable to pay the amount. He was arrested and put in jail about three weeks ago on account of his inability to pay the money.

The negro was downcast by his sudden and unlooked-for incarceration and bore it silently. A day or so ago he began to show signs of his insanity, and yesterday it was necessary to lock him in the cell where crazy people are kept.

He is badly off mentally, and tears at the sides of his cell, but never speaks a word. He has eaten nothing since Sunday night; nor has he spoken since then.

There is no room for him in the asylum, and he will have to be kept in jail until he recovers his mental balance, which now seems to be far off.

PROTECT YOURSELF—as you can easily do—from Chills and Fever with Bile-Beans, which purify and regulate the system.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner.

Mardi Gras.

Round-trip tickets for the Mardi Gras festivities at Mobile and New Orleans go on sale at all principal points in this section February 25th to February 29th, inclusive, at one fare for the round trip, which from Atlanta is only $14.85. The Atlanta and West Point and Louisville and Nashville railroads are making ample arrangements to handle the business, and besides the regular line of through Pullman sleepers, will have extra sleepers as the occasion demands. From the number of berths reserved, large numbers will avail themselves of the low rate for a trip to Mardi Gras via the Atlantic and New Orleans Short Line.

Tickets to Sam Jones.

Tickets to Sam Jones's lecture, on "Manhood and Money," to be delivered Friday night, February 26th, in Trinity church lecture room, are for sale at the George Muse Clothing Company, Glover's bookstore, Freyer & Bradley's, and the Office of the Young Men's Christian Association.

SURRY OF EAGLES NEST

By John Esten Cooke.

This celebrated book has been out of print up to three years ago, and what few copies could be obtained sold readily for $10 and $15 per copy and even more, so great was the anxiety of the public to possess a copy of this great novel. It was then republished as a subscription book and sold at $2 per copy until an immense edition was exhausted.

The publishers then determined to print a paper edition, knowing that there could be several hundred thousand copies more sold at this popular price that in the $2 edition. It has been placed at the remarkably low price of 50 cents, or will be sent for 55 cents postpaid to any address. For sale by John M. OUT AND IN.

Solicitor Frank O'Bryan Steps Out and Solicitor Thomas Steps In.

AT THE COURTHOUSE YESTERDAY.

A Two-Edged Case in the City Court—A Damage Suit Against the Western and Atlantic—Other Notes.

It's now Solicitor Lewis W. Thomas, of the city court.

And he wears his new dignity with the best of grace.

The change was made yesterday, Mr. Frank O'Bryan stepping out and Mr. Thomas succeeding him. Mr. O'Bryan's term expired yesterday. He has been solicitor for about four years, and has made a splendid official. He was appointed to the place by Governor Gordon during his first term of office. He has been a terror to offenders, and has looked after the duties of solicitor with great diligence.

The position is not entirely new to Mr. Thomas. He has acted as solicitor several times in the absence of Mr. O'Bryan, and has proven his capability. He is well fitted for the position, by reason of his familiarity with criminal law and natural ability as a prosecuting attorney.

The position of city court bailiff will be filled by Captain Frank Couch, for many years of the police department. Captain Couch took up the reins yesterday with as much familiarity as if he had just left off yesterday. For some time Captain Ang Perkerson has held the place.

A Damage Suit.

Fayette Williams yesterday brought suit against the Western and Atlantic railroad for $5,000 damages. He alleges that he was arrested on the charge of larceny from a car on December 5th last, and locked up in the station house. He was innocent of the charge, he says, but notwithstanding this fact, he was kept in the prison five days, being cut off from all communication with his family. He was finally turned loose after trial, and now wants reparation for the damage done him. F. R. & J. G. Walker are his lawyers.

In the City Court.

The case of J. A. and G. W. Hollifield against Mrs. Carey B. Scott has been in progress in the city court since Monday.

The suit is for damages, and the sum sued for is $15,000. The plaintiffs allege that they rented a parcel of land from Mrs. Scott, in the eastern suburbs of the city. The contract, they claim, was for a term of ten years, and they went ahead and put permanent improvements on the property, hoping to reap the reward of their labors before the expiration of the ten years. At the end of one year's time they were forcibly ejected by the defendant, the latter claiming that the contract was made for only one year. There was no contract in writing to prove the position of either party.

Suit was brought by the Hollifields, they alleging two grounds for action. They alleged as their grounds for suit, breach of contract and forcible and illegal ejectment.

The argument in the case consumed the entire session of the court yesterday morning.

While it was in progress Judge Westmoreland made a ruling which changed the phase of the case. He held that he could not charge the jury to find a verdict for breach of contract and ejectment. The suit must proceed under only one of the two grounds alleged in the suit.

Mr. Jordan, as counsel for the plaintiff, wanted the case to continue on the grounds of breach of contract, but the defendant's attorneys objected. Judge Westmoreland will fix the matter when he charges the jury today.

A Change in the Clerk's Office.

Mr. J. E. Robinson, who has been for a long time one of the most valued assistants in the clerk's office, has resigned his position to take effect March 1st. Mr. Robinson was recently admitted to practice law, and hereafter will devote his whole time to that profession. He will be in the office of King & Anderson, corner Peachtree and Wall streets. Mr. Robinson is a young man of the very brightest prospects and will make a success of the law.

Piles of Work.

Every department in the courthouse is overrun with work. The extra amount of work on hand is due to the near approach of the session of the superior court, which meets on March 7th.

Assistant Clerks Venable and Myers are kept busy from morning till night getting ready for the opening of the criminal court.

Sheriff Morrow and his deputies are all busy serving papers, and the big rush of suits last week has given the attaches of Clerk Tanner's office all they can do.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

My little girl suffered for three years from a large Abscess on her hip, the result of a fall and dislocation. The Abscess was large, with six openings, all of which discharged puss. I was induced by friends to give her S. S. S., and by the time the fifth bottle was finished the Abscess was entirely healed, and the child was well and happy.—Mrs. J. A. WIEGNER, Slatington, Pa.

I had three little girls who were attacked with obstinate ECZEMA or Blood Trouble, which at first resembled heat, but soon grew to yellow blisters, some of them quite large. One of the children died from the effects of it, but we got Swift's Specific and gave to the other two, and they soon got well. S. S. S. forced out the poison promptly. The cure was wonderful.—J. D. RAINS, Marthaville, La.

S. S. S. has no equal for Children. It relieves the system promptly, and assists nature in developing the child's health. Our Treatise mailed free.

The Road to Victory.

An appeal to the sober second thought of a certain element in the democratic party is now in order.

The issues of the coming campaign are clearly defined. The democratic masses have voiced their demands in words that cannot be mistaken, and it would be suicidal folly for the minority of the party to oppose the will of the majority.

There is one road to victory, and only one. With the right platform and the right man—with an uncompromising fight for the principles and reforms upheld and demanded by the masses, and with a leader who is thoroughly in sympathy with the people, and pledged to their cause, the bannered hosts of the democracy will sweep the field.

It is needless to say that the burning issues of the hour are financial relief and tariff reform. Here in the south, and especially in Georgia, where the alliancemen, who constitute two-thirds of the democratic party, have made these twin issues the slogan of their crusade, our leaders must be blind not to see the handwriting on the wall, and deaf not to hear the clamoring voices in the air.

The meaning of all these signs and portents—these danger signals, and muttering and rumblings of the approaching upheaval can no more be mistaken than the sullen thunder of the whirlwind and the muffled roar of the earthquake!

We must have harmony, and an organization in which all personal and factional preferences will be subordinated to the will of the majority and the supreme issues of the struggle, or the disruption of the democracy will be the ruinous climax and disaster of '92. Speaking for the majority of the party in Georgia, and in the south, we make no idle prediction when we say that if the machine politicians and factional agitators should follow the lead of the eastern money power and nominate Cleveland, the third party would suddenly assume such threatening proportions and develop such strength that the democracy would find its existence menaced by the deadliest peril in its history.

The building up of the third party, which is already in sight, depends upon that democratic minority whose arrogance and proscriptive policy would relegate to the rear, and silence and expel the stalwart yeomanry of the land—the honest toilers cradled in the democracy of Jefferson and Jackson—the embattled farmers who returned from the armies of Lee and Johnston to make their ballots prevail against reconstruction bayonets, redeeming the war-worn states which their clear heads, true hearts and strong arms have made the garden of the republic. The destructive work of the third party will depend upon the policy and the conduct of the democracy. All will be well if we come together, putting aside selfish and factional preferences, yielding in the time-honored way to the will of the majority. All will be wrong if a few mistaken or mischievous leaders attempt to read out of the party, or place under the ban thousands upon thousands of the truest democrats that ever cast a ballot!

We confront a condition and not a theory. Our democratic alliancemen and the masses generally are determined to make a fight for financial relief and tariff reform. They compose a majority of the party in this section, and they will resent the attempt of the minority to force upon them a platform and a leader opposed to their convictions and antagonistic to their interests. They demand nothing that is not democratic. They would reform the tariff, reduce taxation, expand the currency and restore free silver, and they want a presidential candidate who is in harmony with their views. With David Bennett Hill on their platform they can and will win under the democratic banner, Bulldoze, disappoint and trick them, and legions of them will drift into the third party.

Democrats must get together and work for the good of all. We cannot afford to risk this third party danger. It points to the division of the solid south, the agitation of the race problem, the perpetuation of a republican plutocracy and the passage of a force bill, placing a hired bayonet behind every black ballot!

Democrats and democratic alliancemen—let us get together and pull together. We can win with these watchwords—"Financial relief and tariff reform—Hill and victory!"

The New York Platform.

The platform adopted by the democrats of New York state is brief and yet compendious. It reaffirms the whole democratic faith as set forth in the national platforms from 1876 to 1888, as well as the state platforms concurrent with the administrations of Tilden and Hill. It reaffirms the currency plank of 1891, which, under the interpretation placed on it by Mr. Hill in his Elmira speech, is good enough doctrine for the free coinage democrats. "We are against the coinage of any silver dollar which is not of the intrinsic value of every other dollar of the United States." Only the free coinage of the silver dollar on the same terms with gold will give it that intrinsic value.

The democrats of New York renew their pledge of fidelity to the great cause of tariff reform, and they refer to the efforts of Governor Hill to secure the release of the people from the bondage of unequal, unnecessary and unjust taxation. In his speech before the convention Mr. Hill briefly outlined his attitude on this great issue. He had proposed at Elmira, as a piece of congressional policy, the repeal of the McKinley laws. He says at Albany: "Repeal is not a proposal to stop at the tariff of 1883 as a finality. My language expressly barred out that absurd idea. Moreover, in the hour of our defeat three years ago, when the tariff of 1883 was a law of the land, I said here in Albany 'The democratic party nails to the mast the flag of tariff reform.'"

The democrats of New York state and the candidate they offer to the party are thoroughly in accord with the people in their demands for tariff reform and financial relief. They stand in the advance line, the active and vigorous pioneers of all the great issues in which the people are interested. They point the way to victory. In the unanimity with which the party has acted, in the vigor of its utterances are to be found the signs of certain democratic success.

A Supposition.

There are a good many political realities afloat now, but let us suppose a case. Let us suppose that the convention which assembled in Albany last Monday had seen its way clear to endorsing the candidacy of Mr. Cleveland. Let us suppose that it had been a Cleveland love feast; that the elements of democracy had been as enthusiastic for the ex-president as they were for the ex-governor; that the convention had eulogized him in its resolutions and unanimously selected delegates instructed to support him in the democratic national convention.

Let us suppose that all this had occurred, and that the only discordant note had been the protest of a delegation from the democratic organization known as Tammany. Let us suppose that the Tammany delegation, after making an ineffectual protest, and being politely bowed out of the convention, had declared its purpose to call another state convention in the interest of Mr. Hill. What would be the attitude of those editors who are now urging the claims of Mr. Cleveland?

Their cries in favor of regularity would be deafening; their denunciations of the effort to disorganize the party would be terrible. They would call on the democratic party to rise in its might and blot out this discordant democratic element; they would demand the prompt excommunication of these malcontents, and the demand would be pressed with lung-power sufficient to make it audible to the remotest parts of the country.

The parallel we are drawing does not fit the situation to a T, but it will do. Tammany represents something; it has power and influence; it can control votes; it is intensely democratic. Yet if the state convention had endorsed Cleveland and Tammany had entered a protest and threatened another convention, the Cleveland editors in Georgia, in the south and all over the country would fill the air with their angry outcries.

But the situation is far different. The democratic party of New York and the convention which represents its desires are solid for David B. Hill. The only protest that has been heard comes from an insignificant faction which has not even democratic fealty to commend it. It is led by W. R. Grace, who is an independent or a democrat whenever it suits the purpose of his ambition. Such of his followers as profess democracy at all are the fragments of the county democracy, an organization which has gone to pieces because of the desertion of all respectable democrats who were at first disposed to cast their fortunes with it. Sympathizing with Grace, we find the anti-democratic mugwumps and the republicans, who deem it to be their duty to further any movement which promises to disorganize the democratic party.

Such is the character of the opposition to the democracy of New York and to David B. Hill. It is undemocratic in its origin and purpose. Nevertheless, we find editors who profess to be democrats urging it on, sympathizing with it, magnifying its importance, and hurrahing over it. With what show of consistency can these editors hope to fight the third party movement which threatens to take shape in the south? Every democrat in New York who has stood firm by the party since the war is for David B. Hill, but this fact is ignored by these editors, and they are now sympathizing with an attack on the democratic organization which has neither reason nor argument behind it.

The democrats of the south will watch with interest the efforts of these Cleveland editors to promote democratic disorganization.

W. B. GRACE'S movement against the democrats of New York will have no more effect on the party there than it will on the rest of the country.

SOME DEMOCRATIC editors say that Hill cannot carry New York. The democrats of New York say he can. Who has the best information on this subject?

DO DEMOCRATS outside of New York propose to carry the party to defeat on the theory that Hill can't carry his own state?

IT IS natural that W. B. Grace, of New York, should have more influence with the Harrison administration than he has with the democratic party which he has always been ready to betray.

THE MUGWUMPS went up to Albany, and then went back again. It was a great performance.

THE SO-CALLED democrats who are trying to create confusion in New York will find out shortly what the democrats of the country think of them.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE NEW ORLEANS TIMES-DEMOCRAT makes the astonishing proposition that gambling should be licensed under police supervision and regulation. It says that such a policy would be a distinct gain to public morals and finances. New Orleans remains the Paris of America. When her lottery disappears a thousand gambling houses will take its place.

NAPOLEON SAID: "No man dealing with the pressure of business can be expected to write a legible hand; all he can do is to set down dots, and leave it to others to decipher them." This offhand opinion has undoubtedly exerted too much influence. It is constantly quoted by men who are too lazy or careless to write legibly. Any man with good eyesight and sound nerves and muscles can write a good hand, if he will, and he can do it rapidly under the pressure of business.

THE NEW YORK MAIL AND EXPRESS complains that money is too cheap. It is piled up in the banks of the metropolis, and averaged less than 2 per cent on call last week, while loans for six months commanded from 3½ to 4 per cent. Borrowers hold out for low rates, and brokers complain that there is scarcely any demand for money.

MRS. JAMES G. BLAINE, JR., is not well known as a writer, but her matrimonial troubles advertised her to such an extent that a magazine offered her $500 for an article on "Marriage and Divorce." This is the new fashion. Magazines have to keep a few literary people on the string, but most of their writers are persons who have become famous or notorious outside of literature.

DR. HOPPER, of Sydney, Australia, claims that with his electro-magnetic-phrenologic system he operates on the human brain so as to stimulate desirable qualities and correct those which are undesirable. He has experimented successfully with 107 subjects, and has turned bad men into good men, and persons of no capacity into very bright and energetic workers. The doctor has a big field before him.

THE NEW YORK WORLD, in a notice of Miss Powell's last novel, places it above the plane of mediocrity and concedes that it abounds in pathos and humor. This sapient critic, however, objects to the sentimentality of some parts of it. It is not improbable that the strong southern connections of the author constitute the head and front of her offending. Miss Powell's "Winona; a Story of Today," has already won recognition amongst our best cultured people.

A GEORGIA MIXTURE.

Charles J. Bayne.

CHARLES J. BAYNE.

Mr. Charles J. Bayne, of The Augusta Chronicle, is now the talk of the state. His quarrel with a minister of Augusta has made him famous, and his satire in rhyme, which THE CONSTITUTION published yesterday, has only added fuel to the fire. We present an admirable likeness of Mr. Bayne in the accompanying cut. He is a young man who has made rapid progress in journalism, and his paragraphs are considered gems. He is a valued member of The Chronicle's editorial staff, and has made a marked impression as a religious dissenter.

GET OUT OF THE WAY!
New York's in it! She's marching on,
Where victory shines sublime;
And Grace howls hoarsely to Anderson:
"We're having a Hill of a time!"

Bayne, like Byron, awoke one morning and found himself famous. But the Georgia poet has the advantage of his lordship. Byron wasn't a Methodist.

There is great improvement noticeable in The Athens Evening Ledger—from the first page to the last. The Ledger is a live and outspoken newspaper.

SPRING IN SHORT MEASURE.
Now the gardener wields his trowel,
And the maiden trims her hat;
While the printer's office towel
Is the village baseball bat.

Editor Perry, of The Cherokee Advance, has surprised his constituents by announcing definitely that he is not in the senatorial or any other race for office. Perhaps, however, his friends will table the announcement and have it their own way, anyhow.

"EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL."

Editor—We must announce tomorrow that the subscription price has been reduced to 50 cents a year.

Foreman—What's the cause of that?

Editor—Well, I've got a job at splitting rails, and I want to give the public the benefit of it.

Editor Martin, of The Rome Tribune, has suffered a relapse, and his friends are alarmed at his condition. He has not been able to do any active work on the paper since his return home.

The Tifton Gazette is doing a great work for Berrien county. It is the power behind the throne which makes the county move. And it is moving with a rush.

Senator Hill and the Mugwumps.

From The New York Sun.

Against the malignity of the discontented, the turbulent and vicious, no abilities, no exertions, nor the most unshaken integrity are any safeguard.

To persevere is one's duty and be silent is the best answer to calumny.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

An Important Suggestion.

NEAR CARTERSVILLE, Ga., February 20, 1892.—Editor Constitution: Success to the democratic party in the approaching presidential election is of vital importance to the country and especially to the south. It is, therefore, eminently essential that such policy should be pursued as will insure success. To this end nothing can be of greater moment than a policy which will unify all elements of the party. Unless this is done there is no disguising the fact that even Georgia may become a doubtful factor in the next electoral college. This contingency can doubtless be avoided if prompt and proper steps are taken by the democratic executive committee of the state.

Delegates to the state convention should be selected by primary elections to be held at all the precincts in the various counties in the state, of which primaries due and timely notice should be given to the democratic voters of the counties.

This is the only way in which a fair expression of the people can be obtained. If an expression of public sentiment is arrived at in this way, doubtless the party in Georgia will have easy sailing. But unless the wishes of the people are had and an objectionable candidate to the farmers is put upon the party, I greatly fear disastrous reports from the election in November next.

It seems to me that the press throughout the state should urge this policy upon the executive committee, and let's have the strength of the various aspirants for the presidency tested by primary elections. If this is done democrats in Georgia may quarrel a little themselves, but when the delegates to the federal convention are selected, they will doubtless advocate the claims of a candidate who can carry a majority of votes in this state in the ensuing election. FARMER.

ETCHED AND SKETCHED.

Captain A. C. Sneed, long the commanding officer of the Guards and Rifles, is on a visit here from his present home, Winston, N. C. He says that everybody in and around Winston favors Senator Hill for president.

* * *

At a Knights of Pythias celebration, held in West Point, Ga., last week, J. W. Austin, one of Atlanta's popular young attorneys and a prominent Pythian, made an address which has brought him a flood of compliments. He aroused the enthusiasm of the audience at the very start, and quickly won its admiration, which was testified not only in abundant applause, but also in the pleasant and deserved expressions which were given at the close of the address.

* * *

Among the lawyers who came up yesterday from Columbus to attend supreme court was Captain Price Gilbert. Captain Gilbert is at the head of one of the finest military companies in the state. He was a member of the state military advisory board last year, and has always been identified most closely with the military of Georgia.

"While I don't think I would have voted for Griffin had I been on the board this year," said Captain Gilbert, yesterday, "still I am satisfied now the people down there are going to give us a splendid encampment site. Of course we are all going to be there, and in high glee, too."

* * *

Football has been talked in Atlanta recently more than any other one thing. Old and young alike have taken up the topic, and they all grow enthusiastic to white heat when discussing the great college game of last Saturday.

"But football has about played out for this season," said Mr. Foster, one of the most prominent athletes on the campus of the State university, yesterday. "Baseball is now the go and the echo of ball and bat can already be heard on the college campus. The State university this year will have, in the opinion of many students, the best baseball team she ever has had. They will very soon get on their muscle and then you will hear from them. It is probable that Athens will challenge Auburn for a game of baseball before the season is over."

SOLID FOR HILL.

From The Covington, Ga., Star.

There is no longer any question about the Hill tidal wave sweeping over the country. He is certainly gaining strength every day as a presidential possibility. From all over the country come the cheering evidences of his growing popularity with the people. In New York, where he is known best, he seems to be loved the most. The more the people learn of him all over the country, in fact, the faster he is gaining strength with them every day. Mr. Hill is a politician of as pure methods, as high integrity and as clean hands as any man who has ever entered the political arena in this country. His official record is as clean as that of Mr. Cleveland or any other man, and who has filled an office of public trust in this country, while no charge has ever been made against his morals. Mr. Hill is a born leader of men. He is aggressive in his methods, and goes into the fight to beat his enemy. This is the kind of leader the democratic party has long needed. Since the days of Samuel J. Tilden, in 1876, the democratic party has had no leader so sagacious and aggressive as David B. Hill, of New York. The Star believes Mr. Hill should be nominated at Chicago, because we believe he is the only democratic possibility for success. We want the man that can win the fight in November. No other need apply!

From The Augusta, Ga., Chronicle.

Mr. Hill is now before the people with the solid backing of the state of New York, and his record which has never been marred by "disaster, dishonor nor defeat." The race is now clearly Hill against the field, and the best the field can hope for is second place.

From The Macon, Ga., News.

Mr. Cleveland's humiliating weakness in his own state, which should be his chief source of power, would seem to settle the question of his chances. It would be the height of folly to nominate a man who stands no showing to carry his own state, and especially when that state is New York with thirty-six electoral votes.

From The Fort Valley, Ga., Leader.

The old democratic ship is taking on passengers. Dave Hill is captain. Get on boys, or you will be left.

Hill Will Win.

From The Knoxville Sentinel.

David B. Hill can and will win, and the people of the country will realize next November that the memorable words—"I am a democrat"—means something.

A man that has made his own way from the village mayoralty through the highest offices of a great state, to a seat in the United States senate, requires but one other honor for the gratification of the highest ambition of statesmanship, and that will be conferred upon him in the great struggle that we are now approaching.

Hill carried New York by 19,000 when Cleveland lost it by 17,000, and Mr. Cleveland will win new laurels and add to an already enviable record if he will follow the example of Mr. Blaine and unconditionally withdraw from the contest.

Horace Boies, whose name The Sentinel would add to that of David B. Hill on the national ticket, has wiped out the 40,000 republican majority in Iowa, and was elected governor for the second time last November, by nearly 10,000 majority. He is a constitutional lawyer of eminent ability and immensely popular in the west.

The Sentinel is for Hill, Boies and victory.

Democracy's Turn Over.

From The South Boston News.

There is no doubt as to the position of the mugwump papers; they are for Cleveland, but the democrats who follow these erratic shepherds are democrats in name only; they are satisfied with the honor of winning, and are content to let the republican office holders get the benefit of democratic victories. Their motto is:

"To the defeated belong the spoils."

They have won and lost with their candidate; now let the democrats take their chances with a democrat, and let that democrat be David B. Hill, of New York.

There has not been a democratic president since the war.

It is time for one.

It is time for Hill.

No Takers Yet.

From The Boston Morning Journal.

An ardent Georgia democrat, in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, offers to bet $100 against $500 that Mr. Cleveland will not get one-third of the delegates from the four doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana. He invites the Cleveland "windyrats" to "put up or shut up." Here is a chance for some Massachusetts mugwump to rush to the breach and win $1,000 or lose $500, as the case may be. Where is the man who is hankering to prove his devotion?

BROUGHT IN.

Sallie Walker Once More Figures in Police Circles Last Night.

Sallie Walker was found on the street again last night and was brought to the station house.

She is the woman whose baby was taken from her several weeks ago and sent to the Home for the Friendless. Ever since that time the woman has been making an effort to get back her little boy, but without success.

The separation has had a sad effect. The woman last night declared that she had been working since her boy went to the home, but a flask of whisky was taken from her, and when asked about it she burst into tears and said:

"Well, they've got my child. They've took him. What can I do?"

Captain Garrett Answers Today.

Captain Harry Jackson, Messrs. Dan Rountree, John Tye and Jack J. Spalding go down to Macon this morning to attend the United States court. Captain Jackson represents the Atlanta and Florida's principal bondholders, Mr. Rountree is the road's general counsel, Mr. Tye's firm filed the original bill in Judge Clarke's court for a receiver, and Mr. Spalding's firm filed the bill under which Judge Speer appointed Receiver Plant.

A sharp legal battle is expected over the rule against Receiver Garrett, who is to show cause why he was not in contempt when he refused to turn the Atlanta and Florida over to Receiver Plant.

A Preferred Creditor.

A good story is going the rounds about a New York merchant who recently failed for a large amount, says The Paper Mill. He called all his creditors together and offered to settle with them at 10 cents on the dollar, giving them his notes, payable in thirty days. As most of the creditors had little hope of getting anything, they eagerly accepted the proposition. One man, however, stood out for better terms, and all efforts to get him to agree were futile. Finally the bankrupt took him into the hall and said: "Ven you come in an' sign mit de udders den I make you preferred creditor." "All right," said the kicker, "under those circumstances I will agree to a settlement." The papers were signed and all the creditors left excepting the one who had been told he was to be preferred. "Vat are you vating for?" said the man who had failed. "Why, you said I was to be preferred. I am waiting to know what I am to get." "Veh, I tell you—you get notings." "Get nothing? Why, you promised to make me a preferred creditor if I would sign with the rest." "And so you are. I make you preferred. I tell you now you gets notings. De udders wait thirty days before dey know it, and den dey get notings."

The People See.

From The New York Morning Advertiser.

It was not until the virtuous followers of Cleveland saw the far-reaching David, duke of Gloster helping himself to all the political spoils in sight, and actually reaching for the crown and scepter that their sense of outrage became acute. Mr. Cendert welcomed Mr. Hill to the Manhattan Club in terms of adoration when the wily statesman was fresh from the massacre of republican senators and assemblymen in Albany. He saw no wrong in the ambitions Hill, until it became apparent that Cleveland men were not to be allowed in this state what is proverbially known as "a smell." Then he mounted the roatrum and beat his breast and shouted 'Woe, woe!"

Having now set themselves up as purists, with no works behind them to substantiate their claims, the followers of Mr. Cleveland must not grieve if the great, discriminating public judges them as it would certainly judge a pirate who deserted his flag because he had not received proper consideration in the division of spoils.

A VERY SAD CASE.

The Young Woman Driven from Home by and Irate Husband.

Sallie Durham, the young woman who was driven from home by her husband, Bill Durham, suffered a similar experience yesterday morning.

She was sent away from the Home for the Friendless to the almshouse.

The young woman, a week ago in a good home that was her own, did not readily take to the idea of a residence in the almshouse.

She was poor, even penniless, made so by her sickness and her husband's negligence, but her pride forced itself in the way of removal to the retreat that the county provided. She pleaded and persisted, but nothing could be done for her.

With tears in her eyes she entered a hack that had been gotten and was driven away. She cried bitterly, but her going to the almshouse seemed to become a secondary consideration then.

What would become of her child?

She thought of the little one and piteously entreated that it be gotten for her. The scene was a very pathetic one. The unfortunate mother's love for the baby that she had been compelled to leave, stood above everything else, and she would not go until Mrs. Brittan had promised to try to get the little one.

Then she was driven away, calling out that her baby be cared for and brought to her.

And Mrs. Brittan will make a strenuous effort to obtain the child. Detective Harvey Bedford went to work yesterday on the case and he is searching for Bill Durham. As soon as the man can be located, the baby will be taken in charge by Mrs. Brittan and cared for until some satisfactory arrangement can be made.

The mother will remain at the almshouse for the present. As soon as she grows in better health, an attempt will be made to find her some good home and secure for her light work at which she can earn something.

The girl has become an outcast through being driven from home, and yesterday a number of offers were made by interested parties to assist her in every way. And Mrs. Brittan is determined that she shall not suffer for circumstances over which she had no control.

It's a sad state of affairs.

HOW WOULD IT BE RECEIVED?

Railroad Men Are Discussing the Effect of a Great Consolidation.

Railroad people are wondering if a consolidation of the Richmond Terminal's properties would provoke more hostile legislation when the next general assembly meets.

The defeat of the anti-railroad measures last year was thought, at the time, to be the death knell in Georgia of all such legislation. Late in December, when it looked as though the Richmond and Danville intended to default on the interest to the Central and Southwestern stockholders, the opposition to the leases was more general and bitter than it had ever been before in Georgia. In a measure that feeling passed away with the payment of the interest and was succeeded by a sentiment favorable to the maintenance of the leases.

The depreciation of the Central and Southwestern securities made the minority holders sore, but many of them preferred a consolidation which would strengthen their investments to a breaking up of the Richmond and Danville system. A sure 7 per cent stock is more desirable than a non-guaranteed stock in a road which has powerful competitors.

The Central, the Southwestern and the Georgia roads did not earn their guaranteed interest last year. That put the Richmond and Danville in a dilemma. If it paid the rentals it lost money and if it did not pay the interest the leases would be jumped on. It is suggested now that the Olcott committee may be holding back its report to see what the public feeling is, and that the points given out about the plan of consolidation were feelers. One of the leaders in the anti-railroad movement last year, referring to the proposed consolidation, remarked a few days ago: "I told you so," He went on to predict that the hostile spirit will be manifested again in the general assembly unless the minority holders of securities are amply guaranteed. They will not submit to any exchange that does not strengthen their investments.

A SAD MESSAGE.

Mr. Abe Fry Receives a Telegram Announcing His Father's Death.

Mr. Abe Fry, the well-known Peachtree jeweler, received a telegram yesterday from his brother in New York announcing the sudden death of his venerable father, Mr. Nathan Fry. Mr. Fry's father was eighty-three years of age, and for several months past has been growing feeble, but his death was wholly unexpected. He was one of the old residents of New York, and was a successful and careful business man. Thirty years ago he retired from active business life, and passed the declining years of his life with his devoted wife, who survives him. Mr. Fry was the father of four children, to whom he was tenderly devoted, and over whom he watched most happily through his last years. His death will cause a deep regret among all who knew him. Mr. Abe Fry will leave Atlanta today for New York to attend the funeral obsequies, and carries with him the sympathy of a host of friends.

Rev. J. P. Howell, a Methodist minister of LaGrange, died at his residence yesterday morning, very suddenly, with heart disease. Mr. Howell attended services at his church Sunday night and was in good health, comparatively speaking. About 4 o'clock, however, in the morning, his son was awakened by groans from his father, and ere a physician could be summoned Mr. Howell had breathed his last.

Rt. Hon. Sir Henry Cotton, D.C.L., P.C., late lord justice of her majesty's court of appeals, died in London yesterday.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF MACON

Appoints a Committee to Meet the State Agricultural Committee.

MACON, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Tonight, at a meeting of the city council, R. E. Park, M. J. Hatcher and Jerry Hollis, a committee of the Georgia State Agricultural Society, petitioned the council to appoint a committee to have a joint conference with a view of settling the differences between the city council and the society, so as to have the state fair in Macon next fall. The council appointed a committee consisting of the mayor, City Attorney Patterson, Aldermen Ware, Smith, Carling and Chestney.

Alderman Van offered a resolution to sell the present city hall property with a view of erecting a new one-hundred-thousand-dollar city hall. The resolution was defeated by a heavy vote.

Tonight Henry Lloyd fell off of a Georgia Southern car and broke his leg.

Leased by the S. A. M.

ALBANY, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Negotiations which have been pending some time between the stockholders of the Albany, Florida and Northern railroad, and the Savannah, Montgomery and Americus railroad, resulted in a meeting in this city today of the officials of the two roads, and the lease of the first road to the latter for an indefinite number of years. The Atlanta, Florida and Northern road has $420,000 in outstanding bonds, the payment of the principal and interest of which the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery road guarantees as they fall due. This, from all that can be learned, is the principal condition of the lease, which is regarded with general satisfaction by all concerned. With the extension of its main line into Savannah, the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery road will find the Atlanta, Florida and Northern a valuable feeder. Up to the time that the Savannah, Florida and Montgomery road had the use of the Central's track into Savannah, many thousand bales of cotton were secured from the Central, and shipped by way of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery route, which is generally understood to have been the cause of the split between the two roads.

A Dog-Eating Animal.

CONYERS, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—The great "dog-eater," as a strange animal is called which infests the suburbs of Conyers, killing and eating a dog now and then, is still running at large, and quite remarkable tales are told of his ravages. Some say they have seen him, and that he has a large bushy head like a lion, while others say he is more like a bear. It seems clear that he is very fond of eating dogs, which in itself is a remarkable trait.

Why He Is for Hill.

LAGRANGE, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—One of the best reasons your correspondent has yet heard advanced, in a brief way, why Hill is the man above all others that should receive the nomination for the presidency, was given thus by one of the most influential men in this county.

Says the gentleman, he "is for Hill, because he is a silver democrat, a gold-democrat, a currency democrat, an anti-mugwump democrat and the leader of New York democrats."

Weather Forecast.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—Georgia: Slightly warmer in the interior; winds generally northeast; fair weather; warmer and fair Thursday; probably Friday.

Bowden, the ex-policeman, whose case has attracted considerable attention, "that if I am guilty of larceny, there are thousands of others who have been taking coal from cars in the different railroad yards. Almost all the employes of these railroads have been in the habit of taking what coal they wanted, and nobody ever considered it a wrong. I am simply made an example of. An Old Book.

MARIETTA, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—We have had presented for inspection a book bearing title as follows: "The Constitution of the Washington Benevolent Society, of the county of Cayuga; together with the Farewell Address of George Washington, and the Constitution of the United States and of the state of New York." Auburn, Cayuga. Printed by H. & J. Page, 1813, and on the title page we find the following:

"No. 60. This certifies that Wells Whitmore has been regularly admitted a member of the Washington Benevolent society, in the county of Cayuga, instituted on the 4th day of July, 1812. Aurora, 28th day of September, 1814. Seth Phelps, president, R. Robinson, deputy secretary."

This specimen of ancient typography has been sent to our fellow citizen, W. B. Whitmore, by an old friend of the family in western New York, because of the above certificate of membership of the grandfather of the present Wells B. Whitmore.

The Brunswick Import Company's Affairs.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—It is announced that the affairs of the Brunswick Import Company, dealers in oysters and fish, who were closed down a few days ago, have been settled. The company employs about thirty men, but has no connection in any way with other Brunswick oyster firms.

Blacklisting Defaulting Renters.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 28.—[Special.]—The landlords of Brunswick have been so badly beaten in the payment of house rents that an organization has been formed by them recently to be known as the Renters' Agency. The constitution of the agency provides for blacklisting people who refuse to pay rent and leave one house for another, the landlords requiring each prospective tenant to show a receipt in full for his last house-rent payments.

ALMOST READY.

The Atlanta Baseball Club Being Organized---Nearly Ready to Play.

THE SOUTHERN LEAGUE STRENGTHENING

Ted Sullivan Doing Good Work in Chattanooga—Macon Is Growing Enthusiastic—Columbus Getting Ready.

Atlanta's baseball club will be in the field by the 1st of April.

And it will be composed of pennant winners.

The Atlanta lovers of the game met last night in Lanier & Hoppie's office on Broad street, and the meeting was enthusiastic as well as large. Every one wanted baseball and good quality of the game.

The organization of the Atlanta club was discussed, but nothing definite was decided upon.

The name of the association was debated, and will either be the Atlanta Athletic Association or the Atlanta Baseball and Athletic Association. The board of government will be composed of a president, vice president and secretary and treasurer, with ten directors, the three officers of course coming from the directors.

A charter, now being applied for, was presented and read. By it the control of the club will pass under a stock company. The par value of each share will be $10, and no stockholder will be responsible for more than the par value of the stock subscribed for.

Already a large amount of the stock has been taken, and those interested feel sure that within a few days the necessary amount will be raised.

There will be another meeting this week, when a permanent organization will be effected.

Mr. Hopple last night mailed to each of the cities in the league a full copy of the minutes of the league meeting last Saturday. Great numbers of letters have been received from players all over the country who want to come to Atlanta.

Letters and telegrams received at the baseball headquarters yesterday indicated a growing interest in the game all over the south.

Chattanooga Warming Up.

Ted Sullivan, who was in attendance upon the meeting of the league, has reached Chattanooga and gone to work. His work is likely to prove successful, as the following special to THE CONSTITUTION shows:

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., February 23.—[Special.]—Ted Sullivan, in behalf of the Southern League, was here today in close consultation with some of Chattanooga's business men, and his mission is liable to end in good results. Mr. Devine, the manager of the electric lines, has consented to put up a park and equipments for the club to play on, so it only remains with the other people to go on with the club. Mr. Sullivan leaves tonight for Nashville.

Macon Is Ready.

The Macon papers are booming the game, and the indications are that baseball will draw in that city this year.

The Macon Telegraph says:

It is now proposed to invest $1,800 in a club for this city, and this stock is to be taken in shares of $10 each.

More than one share will be sold to the same person and there are several who have announced their determination to take from five to ten shares.

The Telegraph has the names of a score or more of other gentlemen who will take one and two shares each.

In other words not less than five hundred dollars of the necessary amount is now in sight, and this can be added to by $500 more just as soon as the committee gets to work.

It is proposed to hold a meeting some time within the next few days, at which time all arrangements will be made for putting the project through to success.

The recent meeting in Atlanta, which resulted in the formation of a six-club Southern League, has caused Maconites to manifest renewed interest in the matter, and they are universally pleased that Macon should have already secured a place in the league. Now that this city is in, they will not let it drop out, but will come forward with the money to give her a club that will win the pennant.

The projectors of the movement have conferred with the different street railroad companies, and have assurances that a baseball park will be built within easy access to the city. Besides doing this, these companies will help the project by taking a block of stock.

Columbus Is in the Ring.

COLUMBUS, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Mr. Henderson, the street railway manager, is hard at work in the interest of baseball. He has his plans well laid, and in a few days the organization of the Columbus baseball club will be started.

Where's the Football Team?

The Savannah News is after the Atlanta football kickers. Here's what it says:

The Atlanta football players backed down from the Catholic Library Association team, and the game which was expected to take place today is off. By their action the Atlantians practically admit that they are afraid to meet Savannah's "kickers."

The Atlanta team hadn't been organized twenty-four hours before its members and the newspapers there began to talk championship. The Catholic Library Association boys thought the capital city crowed rather previously, and at once issued a challenge, offering to play a series of games, the first to take place in Atlanta on Washington's birthday. After waiting a few days Captain Connolly was notified by the Atlanta captain that it would be impossible to get a sufficient attendance in Atlanta to insure the financial success of the game and his team would rather play in Savannah today, provided the Catholic Library Association team would pay the expenses of the visitors.

Captain Connolly replied by wire accepting the proposition, but Atlanta hasn't been heard from since, and probably won't be in the near future, as its football players are not anxious to try a contest of skill and strength with the Catholic Library Association boys.

Bob Glenn was shown the story last night, and with a broad smile said:

"Savannah wanted to give us $225, but when we told them it would take $240 to pay our expenses they closed up and we have not heard from them since."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The Irish Societies Working Hard to Make It a Success.

The programme for St. Patrick's day is being prepared carefully and joyfully.

And it will be one of the happiest ever seen in Atlanta.

The committees from the four Irish societies have been working industriously and faithfully for several weeks on the events of the day. The morning hours will be given up to a march from the opera house to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where high mass will be said. Then from the church the society will return to the opera house where the orator of the day will hold forth.

The orator is Hon. James F. O'Neill, and no happier selection could have been made.

Mr. O'Neill is one of Atlanta's most entertaining and brilliant speakers and, with his ancestry as his theme, cannot fail to please the most critical audience Atlanta has ever seen.

The full programme will be prepared in a few days.

A NEW LAW FIRM

That Will Be Formed from Two Prominent Firms—Jackson, Barrow & Thomas.

On March 1st the profession of the law in Atlanta will have added to it a new firm which will command a large portion of the patronage of this city and state.

That will be the firm of Jackson, Barrow & Thomas. It will be the result of the amalgamation of two leading law firms: Jackson & Jackson, heretofore doing business in Atlanta, and Barrow & Thomas, heretofore practicing in Athens. The members will be Mr. Henry Jackson, Mr. Tom Cobb Jackson, of Atlanta, and Hon. Pope Barrow and Mr. George D. Thomas, of Athens, and Mr. A. A. Meyer, of Atlanta. Hon. Pope Barrow and Mr. Henry Jackson are already in charge of all the law business of the Richmond and Danville and Central railroads in Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi as associate general counsel to Headley, Lauterbach and Johnson, of New York; whilst Mr. George D. Thomas and Mr. Tom Cobb Jackson are assistant division counsel.

The members of this firm are among the most prominent and best known lawyers in Georgia. Mr. Henry Jackson has made a specialty of railroad, banking, insurance and mercantile law, acting as counsel for some of the strongest companies in the south. Captain Jackson has been closely identified with many interests, was one of the founders and directors of the Atlanta Home, and is identified with a number of different enterprises, one of the largest being that of reclaiming the Okefenokee swamp, to which great work he has given a good deal of his time for the past two years. He has long been one of the most prominent attorneys at the Atlanta bar and his reputation as a lawyer is by no means confined to Georgia or the south.

Hon. Pope Barrow is prominent at the law and in politics. He was, as everybody knows, a member of the United States senate, a member of the constitutional convention of 1877, and for several years was a prominent member of the legislature. He has for a long time been identified with railroad litigation as counsel for some of the largest corporations, particularly of the Richmond and Danville.

Mr. Tom Cobb Jackson has been a member of the firm of Jackson & Jackson since his admission to the bar, several year ago. He is a brilliant young man, who has already made his mark. Mr. George D. Thomas is at the head of the law school of the university, a director of the Southern Mutual Insurance Company and attorney for the Georgia railroad at Athens. Mr. A. A. Meyer was clerk in the office of Mr. Henry Jackson from boyhood, and is now advanced to partnership because of ability, accurate business habits and knowledge of commercial law. He is an Atlanta boy, who has many friends here.

The offices of the new firm will be in the Kiser building, corner of Pryor and Hunter streets. The members will devote themselves to the general practice of law, and desire it understood that they will faithfully represent any business entrusted to them, not adverse to the interests of the clients by which they are regularly retained. Among their clients may be named the Gate City National bank, the New York Life, the Atlanta Home, the Underwriters, the Southern Mutual, the Germania, the North America and other insurance companies and many of our leading mercantile houses.

ATLANTA'S NEW MARKET.

A Brief Description of How It Will Be Arranged.

It looks like Atlanta's long-looked-for market is at last looming up in full view as a reality.

When the National hotel property was put on the market Mr. H. F. Emery and others bought it with the purpose in view of erecting the market.

Since the purchase they have been working quietly, and at last Bruce & Morgan have completed the plans.

THE BROAD STREET FRONT.

They are elegant, and if the specifications are carried out the building will be a great addition to Atlanta, besides supplying one of its greatest needs.

A Brief Description.

The main entrance is on Broad street, and is very handsome.

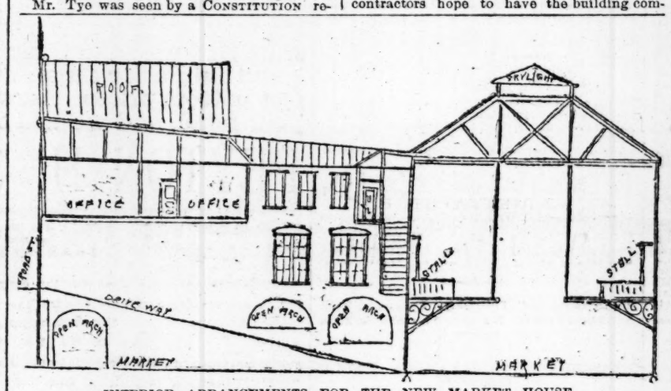

There will also be a large entrance on the railroad side, where the new railway from Peachtree to Forsyth street has just been constructed.

Those drawings are in the hands of Councilman Tye, and will be taken before the council at its next meeting.

The owners of the property are very reticent about talking on the subject and won't say much. But, of course, they couldn't afford to put up such a building at such a great cost unless they were protected from competition.

Mr. Tye was seen by a CONSTITUTION reporter and asked what he thought the council would do.

"Well," said he, "I haven't seen them all, and it's hard to tell. Of course, the builders must have some protection and privileges granted to undertake such a large job, but I think they have been very moderate in their requests, and no doubt everything will be satisfactorily arranged, and it will not be long before all the conditions will be adjusted for them to commence work.

INTERIOR ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE NEW MARKET HOUSE.

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

A Charming Lecture—The State Association to Meet.

The lecture delivered by Rev. Lysander Dickerman in the Young Men's Christian Association hall last night was one of unusual interest, and was well worth the attention of all who desired any instruction in the simple customs and faith of the ancient Egyptians.

Dr. Dickerman is not only a scholar, but an enthusiastic Egyptologist.

His word-painting is full of life and originality. He has made a life study of the wonders of Egypt, and has an unlimited knowledge of the vast deserts, the pyramids, obelisks, memorials and burial places.

He has the happy faculty of drawing from his theme, as if by casual allusion, some very practical truths for modern times.

The State Convention.

On the 25th of this month, Griffin will be filled with young men from the Young Men's Christian associations throughout the state.

They will discuss the various departments of the work of this organization, the work for young men in cities, in the country places, among the railroad men and in the colleges.

Governor Northen will make the opening address on Thursday night.

The Bible studies will be conducted each morning and evening by Mr. Edwin F. Lee, the successful general secretary of the Brooklyn association.

Addresses will be made by Mr. S. F. Brockman, the international college secretary, and other prominent workers. Mr. F. L. Willis will lead the singing. Mr. Willis is the state secretary of Alabama.

The delegates from Atlanta are Governor Northen, Messrs. W. H. Preston, J. E. Wilhelm, B. C. Davis, L. B. Smart, D. E. Schumaker, A. E. Wheeler, Walter Smith, W. F. Baxter, Percy Mays, Henry Hillyer, Walt White, Lewis Thomas, W. R. Bossard, Walter Menkin, Ed Drake, W. F. Trenary, W. S. Garfield, W. Woods White, C. A. Licklider, J. Hardin Jones and Dr. J. W. Cooke.

Mr. H. P. Anderson, the acting state secretary at the Young Men's Christian Association building, has charge of the arrangements of the convention and will be glad to give any one information in regard to it.

LOOKING INTO FI. FAS.

The Finance Committee Working on the Story.

REINHARDT'S INVESTIGATION STARTED,

But the Work Will Not Be Completed for a Day or Two—Other City Hall News.

Mayor Pro Tem. Reinhardt and those fi. fas.

That's what the finance committee was working on yesterday and will continue to investigate today.

Mr. Rice, Mr. Turner, Mr. Shropshire and Mr. Sawtell were present when the investigation began. So was Marshal Loyd, Deputy Clerk Rice and Assistant City Attorney Anderson.

A pile of books was on the clerk's table.

Mr. Woodward's resolution ordering the investigation was read.

"I'd like to ask the city attorney," said Mr. Turner, "to construe that resolution for us."

The paper was handed to Judge Anderson, and as he glanced at it he asked:

"In what way?"

"Who are we to investigate? How far back shall we go? Does it mean members of this, the present general council, or are we to go back indefinitely?" asked Mr. Turner.

Judge Anderson studied the paper carefully, and then decided that the committee could decide its scope—could go back as far as it wanted to.

"We can do nothing with any one now out," remarked Mr. Shropshire.

"Then I suggest," said Mr. Turner, "that we begin with 1890."

Then Deputy Clerk Rice began with the fi. fas. held up in '90. Mr. Reinhardt's name appeared, but it was shown that the fi. fa. issued in that year had been satisfied in the same year. Other names appeared in the same way.

In '91 the full text of fi. fas. which appeared in THE CONSTITUTION a few days ago in an interview with Mr. Reinhardt materialized. These were recorded, and the investigation was continued.

The committee, however, found it impossible to complete the work, and adjourned to meet again this afternoon when the work will be resumed.

The entire investigation so far has developed nothing except what Mr. Reinhardt stated when he gave his construction of the matter to the public a few days ago.

Fixing for the Building.

Actual work was begun on the new station house building yesterday.

On the lot to be occupied are several small, inferior house.

The contractors yesterday began tearing these away and before the month is out ground will be thrown up for the magnificent new building. The police commission and the contractors hope to have the building completed for the department long before the year is out.

Who Will Get It?

Who will succeed Mr. Rapp as waterworks inspector?

For years the work was faithfully and accurately done.

But now that he has gone, there are many who are anxious to secure the place. Quite a number of applications have been filed with the water board.

A Strong Company.

In another column appears the 199th semi-annual statement of the Old Insurance Company of North America, which in this year celebrates its centennial. Its history for 100 years has been characterized by promptness and fairness which have won the confidence and favor of the public wherever it has done business, while the conservatism and wisdom of its management is reflected in its immense accumulation of assets and net surplus over all liabilities.

In all the great conflagrations which have visited our country, theis policies of th venerable institution represented 100 cents on the dollar for the ful amount of its liability, and it stands today unsurpassed in every point of excellence as an insurance company.

The office of the southern department of this great corporation is located in Atlanta, and is under the management of Captain Edward S. Gay. The business of all the southern states is reported to this office, and its large premium receipts in the south are handled through our banks, and therefore constitute an important factor in our banking and commercial interests.

Besides the security furnished by its immense accumulation of splendid assets, this company gives to the citizens of Atlanta, all of the advantages of a home instution, which should commend it especially to the insuring public of our city.

The local business of the company in Atlanta, is under the management of Messrs. Harris, Nutting & Co., No. 10 East Wall St., Kimball house, and those who desire first-class insurance will do well to give them a call.

The Southern Painter and Builder.

This is the name of a trade paper just issued from the press in this city. It is published monthly by the Southern Paint and Glass Company, and has a very extensive circulation. It has reproduced the Georgia Mechanics' and Material Men's lien law. In order to introduce the paper, the company is having several thousand distributed gratuitously throughout the city and state.

HE'S SADDER AND WISER.

The Story of a Young Man Who Came to the City.

Here is the story of one young man who, attracted by the glamor of a big city, came to seek fame and fortune—and failed.

He was a young farmer from a north Georgia county, who sold his rural home to a northern man in January and came to Atlanta to look for work.

When the low price of cotton, last fall, made it impossible for the producer to live and dress like a city swell, he decided to dispose of his farm, even at a sacrifice, and come to town, where everything appeared to move along so smoothly and money seemed so plentiful. He is satisfied now that "all is not gold that glitters."

His pathway here has been a rough one. At the outset, the business of getting rich looked easy enough, but an air castle would fall with every effort made to obtain employment, and now he is very despondent; his money is all gone, and he must walk back home and work there as a field-hand for his old neighbors.

It is fortunate that the prodigal has no family dependent upon him, and is the only one to suffer from the sad experience. Like too many farmer's boys, a precarious living in the city, earned by many hard licks, seemed to him a better way to enjoy life than that afforded by agriculture. A man without a trade, knowing absolutely nothing beyond the common routine of farm life, he came here to get a soft job and live easy. He is not the first to make this mistake. Perhaps hog and hominy will be more palatable hereafter, and everything that looked hard before will appear in a better light when he returns.

It was a bitter experience. Perhaps, though, some other young man may profit by the telling of it.

GRAND RECORDER EHRLICK,

Of the A. O. U. W., Talks About the Reported Disorder of the Lodge Books.

Grand Master Recorder Ehrlick, of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, of Albany, is still in the city, and will remain two or three days.

In a conversation last night regarding the object of his visit to Atlanta and the rumored disorder in the books of Union lodge 47, of this city, Recorder Ehrlick said:

"I did not come to Atlanta for the purpose of straightening out the books of Union lodge, but together with Grand Master Workman Thomas, I came to this city especially to pay an official visit to Fulton lodge, 44, having been invited to do so. Some of the officers of Union lodge, 47, reported to me that their predecessors left some irregularities in the lodge books, and requested me to stay over and assist them in rectifying them. The character of the slight irregularities in the books is not at all serious, and the report that has gotten out that the benefits of members are in danger, is without the slightest foundation. The books have been corrected and put into the most perfect order, but the benefits of members never have been in any danger for that matter. There cannot possibly be any danger to the benefits as long as the members keep their dues up."

"Please say for me," continued Recorder Ehrlick, "that tonight the books of Union lodge 44, of Atlanta, are in as good condition as those of any banking house in the city. What we came to Atlanta for was to encourage our order and try to insert more enthusiasm into the Atlanta lodges. The officers made these visits to all the lodges over the state during a year."

MRS. AVERY'S ENTERTAINMENT.

It Proves a Great Success, and the New Church Is Now in Sight.

The entertainment given for the benefit of the Merritts avenue church, at the residence of Colonel I. W. Avery, was a most enjoyable one.

This was the initial step towards building a new church.

Some time ago "the little church around the corner" was in a very weak condition, but Dr. Hopkins took hold of it, and now they want larger quarters.

A lot is being looked at on North avenue, also one or two others, but nothing definite has been decided upon yet.

The entertainment last night was a financial success.

Dr. Morrison acted as master of ceremonies, and made a short talk before reading the programme. He spoke of the work before them and talked confidently of success with Dr. Hopkins at the head. The following was the programme: Mr. and Mrs. Cochran, guitar and piano duet; Mrs. Nourse, recitation; Dr. Hopkins, "Travel Talks;" Mrs. Nourse, song; Mrs. Cochran, piano solo; Miss Ketner, recitation; Miss Nellie Knight, song.

The programme was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Nourse is from San Francisco, and is visiting Colonel Avery's family. Her husband is a large publisher in San Francisco.

DR. RANKIN BETTER.

Dr. Hunter P. Cooper Thinks There Is Good Chances for His Recovery.

Dr. J. W. Rankin's condition was better last night.

He was resting well and seemed to be gaining strength. His family was very hopeful.

Dr. Hunter P. Cooper, Dr. Rankin's physician, who has been with him day and night during his illness, last night entertained hopes of recovery.

Dr. Cooper said the chances for recovery were better than at any time since the night of the attack. He said Dr. Rankin has a wonderful constitution and that unless some extraordinary change for the worse takes place, he will recover.

NAMED FOR HENRY GRADY,

And They Took First Prize at a New York Poultry Show.

FORT GAINES, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Colonel F. E. Grist, mayor of this city, has been quite successful with raising game chickens. A letter from New York informs him that his birds recently won first prize at the great poultry show at Madison Gardens.

The fowls referred to were of Colonel Grist's favorite strain—named in honor of his much esteemed friend, and Georgia's illustrious son, Hon. Henry W. Grady. It will doubtless be a surprise to some, especially as the cry of "hard times" has been so universal and unprecedented, to learn, on the undisputed authority of the colonel's books, that his sales for 1891 amounted to over five thousand dollars in excess of any previous season. How is that for a little chicken business?

ED CALLOWAY, of the Kimball, was called to the bedside of his sick sister in Forsyth yesterday

MR. TOM READ, of the enterprising firm of Read & Wiggins, of Marrietta, was in Atlanta yesterday.

"The Old, Old Story."

"The Old, Old Story," to be seen at DeGive's opera house Friday and Saturday evenings, comes to Atlanta with the stamp of approval from metropolitan audiences. It was originally produced at the Lyceum theater, New York, last season and scored an instantaneous success. The plot of the play was suggested by a real occurrence in New York business life, in which a rich Englishman was fleeced by his bankers. In the play, Philip Harleigh, the son of the dead Englishman, falls in love with a ward of Nathaniel Beekman (Beekman & Son, bankers), who is betrothed to Sidney Beekman, and in spite of the fact that her guardian's son has ruined the firm, she promises to marry him from a sense of duty in order that her fortune may save the Beekmans from disgrace. She loves Harleigh, and admits to him that she loves him alone. Sidney overhears her protestations and ends his life. There is an abundance of pure comedy, and just enough pathos nicely blended in dramatic situations.

In the company are Miss Fannie McIntyre, a metropolitan favorite, who has made a big hit as the leading lady in the piece; Isabella Martin, Dan Sabel, and Stella Kenny, who appeared in the original production at the Lyceum theater, New York; E. A. Locke, C. T. Nichols, of the Madison Square theater; Mrs. Britton, of Daly's, and Ralph Stuart and John Flood, who was leading man for Daniel Frohman's companies.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Exhorters Are Making General Passenger Agents Tired.

A MODEST REQUEST FOR A PASS.

The Problem of the Public and Consolidation—Receiver Garrett Answers Today.

He introduced himself at the general passenger agent's office of the Richmond and Danville as the Rev. Evangel Siloam Walker, pastor of the Golden Streets of the New Jerusalem church.

Being asked what he wanted, he said he would like the Richmond and Danville to give him a pass "all over the United States and to Africa and the West India islands."

"He must think that the Olcott committee has reported and that its plan of consolidation has gone into effect," some one remarked.

The Rev. Walker was surprised to learn that the Richmond and Danville does not reach Africa and the West India islands. Then he inquired what would be the best thing the road could do for him. He stated that he understood the company furnished free passes everywhere to regular ministers of the gospel.

Mr. Posten, the chief clerk, replied that the company gave only a reduced rate to the clergy and those who receive that favor have to be identified and sign a certificate that they make their living by preaching. Deacons and elders and "'zorters" have to pay full fare just as laymen do.

Inquiry at the general passenger agent's offices of the different railroad companies showed that there is a flood of applications pouring in all the time for ministers' permits. While the rules of the several roads differ in minor points, they are alike in a general way. The Richmond and Danville gives a reduced rate which varies on different parts of the system. The Western and Atlantic gives 2 cents a mile, and the East Tennessee one fare for the round trip. To get a permit on the East Tennessee the preacher must certify that he is in charge of a regular church. The Western and Atlantic requires a certificate from an agent of its own who knows the applicant.

The colored exhorters have been persistent and multitudinous this winter at all the passenger agencies in Atlanta. At the East Tennessee's passenger department there was a request recently from a negro deacon for a pass all over the south. The applicant said he wanted to visit all the neighboring states.

One of the roads running out of Atlanta began the experiment a few years ago of giving reduced rates to all persons who are engaged in religious or charity work. Within three months a large percentage of the permits were found in the hands of scalpers. The policy was changed, and the line was drawn more closely.

Only a Local Boycott.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says:

"The Illinois Central, although a member of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, is paying no attention to the order of the commissioner of the association, that the Nickel Plate fast freight line be boycotted."

That order was issued before the Mississippi Valley Association moved over to Atlanta. Colonel Stahlman explained soon thereafter that it was a kind of a local order applied at Memphis.

Marietta and North Georgia.

Mr. W. B. Bradley, general freight agent of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad, was in the city yesterday. The work on the Tennessee river bridge and the half mile of grading, which will complete this road to Knoxville, will be finished by October. Mr. Grant Wilkins, of Atlanta, has the contract for the foundations and bridge work.

They Want to Oust Chamberlain.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., February 23.—[Special.]—In the United States court the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New York, filed a bill to cause the supersedure of H. S. Chamberlain as receiver for the Chattanooga Union Railway Company. The company makes a clean breast of Davis's connection with the suit by declaring that he never owned a cent of bonds. Davis was the plaintiff in the suit in which Chamberlain was appointed receiver. The suit will be heard in Nashville Saturday.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, ATLANTA, February 23, 1892.

Atlanta Clearing Association Statement.

Clearings today ....$ 571,408.12

Notes.

Louisville and Nashville earnings for the second week of February increased $56,000 over the same week of last year. Today the stock sold the highest at 75⅛ and closed at 75.

Lackawanna cut some more antics today, opened at 157, sold lowest at 156½, highest 160¼, and closed at 160. The deacon keeps the boys on the ragged edge, but will let them down after awhile when he has made them ante up to his satisfaction.

Tennessee Coal holds its own, and will see much higher figures when the manipulators are ready to put it there. On its merits it is one of the cheapest stocks on the list.

Georgia Pacific bonds continue to climb slowly, firsts selling at 105 and seconds at 67.

Macon reports a sale of 100 shares of Southwestern at par, and that bid for more but none offering under 101.

For seven months ending January 31st, we exported $186,136,786 worth of breadstuffs against $64,524,799 the same months last year, but notwithstanding this enormous amount in our favor, we are seeing gold shipped abroad to pay the balance against us. We notice that when we owe a debt abroad gold is required in payment; our creditors won't take silver although it may have a stamp of the United States government on its face saying that it is money.

The holiday yesterday caused a cessation in the local security trade, and today there is almost nothing doing.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The condition of the foreign exchange market and the buying of American stocks for foreign account were the principal factors in the course of prices in the stock market today, and while there was in the forenoon a dropping of prices with some material losses, the latter portion of the day saw not only recovery of the early declines but a gain of fractions in addition. London was a liberal buyer of stocks during the whole of the forenoon, but despite this fact there was considerable realizing in different portions of the list, while Chicago Gas was under the hammer continuously and its drop of 2¼ per cent had a material influence upon the rest of the list for the time being. Atchison, Burlington, Reading and some others scored losses of 1 per cent, while the entire list lost fractional amounts. The magnitude of the takings for foreign accounts then became apparent and there was a rush to cover shorts put out earlier in the day, which, with the help of new buying accounts of an improved aspect of the gold movement, soon placed prices on a materially higher level than that of noon figures. In this latter movement Chicago Gas recovered about half of its loss, but Grangers, especially St. Paul and Atchison, were largely traded in at advancing prices. The decline in Chicago Gas had no influence upon other Industrials, for all, including Sugar and Distillers were very quiet and firm, while Cordage stocks were especially strong, preferred rising 2⅛ per cent. The market undoubtedly showed a narrowing tendency but the late strength displayed encouraged buyers and commission houses, whose purchases during the forenoon were very limited, but became a factor in the late advance. The close was quiet but firm to strong, generally at fractional gains over the first prices and at about the highest prices of the day. Final changes are almost all small gains, but while Chicago Gas is down 1⅜, Lackawanna rose 3¼, Jersey Central 1⅛ and Union Pacific 1 per cent. Sales, listed, 318,000 shares. Unlisted, 4,000.

Exchange quiet and easier at 486½@489; commercial bills 484¼@487⅛.

Money easy at 1½@2, closing offered at 2.

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter.

By Private Wire to A. P. Youngblood.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The London market improved over the holiday, and they bought about 10,000 shares of stocks during the first hours. Still the market was rather soft all the forenoon, as the bears took advantage to increase the short line. At about 1 o'clock, after a goodly short interest had been created in the market, the Coal stocks were taken in hand. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western was advanced 4 per cent in short order. On the advance very little stock came out, as the majority is held by investors. A good many of the transactions in this stock are cross traders. The other Coalers did not act as strong as might be expected, especially Reading, which held a little back. It is probable that a good deal of legislation is near at hand, but we think it will end favorably to their combination. The most encouraging feature today was the weakness in the sterling exchange market, and it is not likely that any gold will be shipped this week. Chicago Gas was again subject to the same old-time manipulation, and there is no doubt that the pool has sold a good deal of stock and were gunning for stop orders, in which they were to a great extent successful. The market closes near the top. The buyers in the afternoon were the sellers in the morning.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, February 23.—Quotations of futures in Liverpool show a net decline of about 2 to 3-64d over the American holiday. The response in our market at the opening this morning was a reduction in values of about three points as compared with Saturday's prices. Receipts for both yesterday and today were reported full, but the market showed no tendency toward weakness, and with a conspicuously firm undertone, advanced, until by 1 o'clock, August had sold at 7.29 or about nine points above the lowest figures touched. The only apparent cause for the improvement is the fact that receipts at New Orleans tomorrow will only be 3,000, but the movement for the balance of the week, it is said, will be heavy. Our cables from Liverpool advise a rather better demand from the continent, and say that the decline of yesterday was largely the result of a bear raid, made upon the hypothesis that Liverpool this morning sold below 4d, September and October having touched that figure, and it was thought that some orders of importance were executed for London investors. During the afternoon the market continued quiet and steady, making a slight reaction, which was, however, fully recovered by the close, final prices being within one point of the highest of the day, and three points over the figures of Saturday evening. Receipts for the week thus far, 76,631, against 78,000 for the same time last week. This movement is enormous, and the strength of the market, despite its volume, lends color to the stories of an alleged bull syndicate which are again in circulation today. We cannot, however, find anything to confirm the idea, and a syndicate whose buying capacity is less than 1,000,000 bales we fear would have weary work until the surplus is somewhat reduced.

Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter.

By private wire to A. P. Youngblood.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The market has again been strangely contrary, for with Liverpool easier and receipts in all directions liberal for the past few days prices really opened at a trifling decline, and soon thereafter on the announcement that November would be small tomorrow, but likely large again on Thursday, began to improve and advanced over Saturday's best closing, and very steady at the top. There were considerable efforts made to hold prices in check, and local operators sold quite freely. The absorbing power, however, was good today, and there was at no time any pressure—the demand remaining good throughout the day. Europe has taken a good part of the cotton and bears out of the impression formed that at these prices there are a great many who are willing to hold on and take care of the article. We see no good signs of any immediate improvement, but all the same believe that it is by far the wisest thing either to look on or to buy. As far as selling is concerned, we do not entertain a thought of such a course at these prices.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, February 23.—There was but little doing here in speculative markets today. Receipts which had accumulated since Saturday, showed up big when lumped together. Local holders dumped any long wheat they held and the price for May shows a loss since Saturday of 1⅛c. Wheat started ⅛@¼c lower, with May at 93c sellers, followed by an immediate drop to 92⅝c and shortly another drop to 92⅛c; the close was at 92¼c.

The speculative business in corn came almost to a dead stand after the first twenty minutes of the session and the price scarcely moved from 41⅝c for May. Afterward it got as high as 41¾@41⅞c and as low as 41⅛@41¼c and closed at 41⅞c.

Oats were quiet and weak and in sympathy with the easy feeling in wheat and corn. May sold early at 31⅛@31¼c, fell to 31c and later reacted and closed at 31⅛c.

Hog products were quiet and decidedly lower; receipts of hogs were in excess of the estimates and the prices at the yards were 5@10c lower. This started a good deal of speculative selling, and as there was a very little demand lower prices resulted. May pork sold early at $11.72½, broke gradually to 11.72, reacted to $11.60 and again sold off to $11.55. May lard sold from 6.60 to 6.55 and closed at 6.55. May ribs fell from 5.97½ to 3.87½ and closed at 5.90.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

By Private Wire to A. P. Youngblood.

CHICAGO, February 23.—The grain markets have been very tame the greater portion of the day, compared with the activity of several days last week. Holders were discouraged at the cable reports of the foreign markets, nearly all being lower. We have tried repeatedly to impress upon our customers that the foreign markets are becoming quite speculative, and are very dangerous to follow, especially when they have such rapid changes as were reported by cable last week. We see nothing to encourage holders. The market was sustained most of the day by a large short, who was providing for his contracts. The general tone was weak and declining.

Very little doing in corn and oats. Receivers found difficulty in realizing on their holdings without liberal concessions. A few speculators attempted to sell out their holdings of mess pork. The result was a decline of about 35 cents a barrel. Armour was credited with being a large buyer of cash lard and ribs.

Futures were dull and heavy, in sympathy with the decline in mess pork.

MONEY! MONEY! MONEY!

Save your money. Teach your children to save money. Encourage your employes and servants to save money. Let all form the habit of saving money. Thus you secure a home. Thus you save trouble and are independent when sickness, misfortune and old age come. Baltimore people have about forty millions in their savings banks. Every family makes it a rule to save something every week or month. The state of Maine, with only 650,000 inhabitants, has $68,000,000 in its savings banks. These people have formed the habit of saving. Let the Atlanta people begin to save their spare money.

The hours for the entertainment are from 8 until 10 o'clock in the evening. The reception committee has done everything to make the affair brilliant and delightful. Light refreshments will be served by a committee of ladies, and the entire mansion will be opened and made brilliant.

"THE PIRATES" TONIGHT.

Everybody Will Be at the Opening Performance Tonight.

All Atlanta will be present this evening at DeGive's to witness the initial production of "The Pirates of Penzance" by the Atlanta Opera Club. The opera house will contain tonight one of the most fashionable and highly cultured audiences that probably ever was seen within its confines.

There has never been any amateur or professional performance in this city that has created so much enthusiasm as the production of this delicate and humorous little opera. All over the city it has been the topic of conversation for the past several weeks. The members of the company have been hard at work. The people are anxious to witness the result of that work and it is safe to say the performance will be a brilliant success artistically and otherwise.

The opera is a delicious morsel of music and mirth. The opera will be produced with all of the elaborateness of stage mechanicism that is necessary to give an even, finished and artistic conception of the work of its author. The brilliance of the costumes will be an attractive feature. The participants will appear to an exceptionally strong advantage in them.

The thousand and one odds and ends in the preparation of "The Pirates" were attended to yesterday. The general public has no conception of the number of details which necessarily attends such a production. Mr. Joseph Hirsch was very busy looking after the business end, and he has now everything pertaining to the commercial part of the opera in readiness. Arthur Swope and his corps of assistants at the opera house stage were arranging the various articles necessary for the production, the cups, daggers, crowbars, center bits, dark lanterns, banks, the "moon," steps and innumerable other things required.

All day yesterday milliners were busy putting the finishing touches on hats for the ladies, and seamtresses were adding the final fits to the gentlemen's regalia. Director Simpson was busy looking after everything and worked hard all day overseeing all departments. Conductor Mayer was arranging the scores and preparing all the details pertaining strictly to the orchestra. Mr. Charley Howard, the opera house treasurer, was kept busy from morning until night selling tickets.

Altogether it was quite an exciting day for every one who will have anything to do with the opera's performance.

The overture opens this evening's performance promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Several box parties are to be given, and the initial performance will be greeted by a great house.

EXPRESSING THEIR THANKS.

At a meeting of the Milwaukee party, which was entertained by the Atlanta real estate board, just before taking the train for Florida, the following resolutions were presented and adopted:

"Resolved, That at this time and in this manner, a unanimous vote of thanks be tendered to Governor Northen, of the state of Georgia, and Mayor Hemphill, of the city of Atlanta, for their generous words of welcome; to the members of the Atlanta real estate board for their many kind attentions; to the officers and members of the Northern Society, for the use of their rooms and kindly greeting, and to the management of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION for its permission to go through its composing and pressrooms and at the same time to visit the 'sanctum sanctorum of the new south,' the office of the late lamented Henry W. A SOUTHERN PRISON.

The Movement for a Federal Institution of That Kind for Atlanta,

IS ABOUT TO ASSUME SHAPE.

The Government Prisoners Must Go from the County Jail, so Chairman Hunnicutt Says—Where Will They Go, Then?

The question of the establishment of a federal prison in the southern district is again being agitated by the United States officials.

They say that such a prison has become an absolute necessity and without it the government will have to suffer enormous, useless expenditure of money and the greatest inconvenience.

Said a well-known federal official yesterday in speaking of the matter: "The necessity has become imperative. The penitentiary at Columbus, O., is crowded to such an extent that it cannot possibly be either safe or healthful. Then there is no economy in taking prisoners from here to Columbus, O., to serve short sentences; and again it is not justice to the prisoners to send them so far from home to serve a sentence of a few weeks, or months, for some trivial offense. Often a prisoner has to spend many more days of incarceration on account of this inconsistent arrangement, than his sentence calls for. Why, here in Atlanta now," he continued, "there are two men confined in the county jail waiting for transportation arrangements to Columbus. It has been some time since they were sentenced, and the long, weary days of prison life that they are spending, and which were not included in their sentences, are unjust. The term of imprisonment fixed for them by the court before which they were tried, was what it was thought their offenses merited, and there is no justice in being thus prolonged for mere convenience sake. There are scores of such cases.

"Now that the county commissioners have decided not to build a new county jail," he continued, "it follows that all the United States prisoners must sooner or later be excluded from the present building. What will become of them? There must be some place of confinement and safe-keeping for them. There is no doubt in my mind that they will be excluded from the county jail after March 1st. There is a strong disposition on the part of the majority of the county commissioners to do this, and Commissioner Hunnicutt has expressed himself that way very emphatically. So something must be done. The only satisfactory way to eliminate these troubles is to build a southern prison for the confinement of United States prisoners. Then if this was done, the days the large number of petty offenders who get sentences of from thirty to ninety days, spent in idleness, could be so utilized as to keep them from being a dead expense to the government. They might as well work and be self-supporting as not. This would do more to decrease the violations for which they are imprisoned than anything else. They don't mind spending a few days in jail, when they have nothing to do, but if they were made to work it would be different."

There is a general interest manifested in the subject by those connected with the government departments, and a concerted effort will be made to secure the southern penitentiary. And Atlanta should have it.

About the Federal Building.

Moonshining seems to be enjoying the height of prosperity in Alabama. At any rate, there seems to be no limit to the extent to which this forbidden, but fascinating, industry is carried on across the line, judging by the reports received by the head officials here.

Yesterday R. W. Alexander filed suit in the United States court against the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company for $15,000 damages for injuries sustained while in the employment of the defendant company. Alexander was a brakeman on the Richmond and Danville road, and was seriously injured by a freight train at Seneca, S. C., in August, 1890.

Director Park Merrill has secured some handsome new furniture for the weather bureau office. His requisition included a folding lounge, but the department drew the line at such luxuries and it was refused.

John Wallace, a veteran moonshiner of Haralson county, was brought to the city yesterday by Marshal J. C. Thomas, given a hearing before Commissioner W. W. Haight on the charge of illicit distilling, and sent to jail to await the action of the United States grand jury.

John Scarborough and Joe Drake, of Madison county, were brought to the city on bench warrants yesterday by Marshals Carter and Campbell for violating the internal revenue laws. Drake made his escape from the officers last November while under arrest.

The most diligent search for some time failed to disclose his whereabouts. Just as day was dawning Monday morning, however, the officers stealthily crept up to the home of Mrs. Brown, Drake's mother-in-law, and while he reveled in sweet slumbers they neatly fitted a pair of bright cuffs on his wrists. He made no protest when he found it was no use.

Emmet Stanley's trial will not be called before the latter part of March or the 1st of April on account of the state of District Attorney Darneil's health.

That Lumber Case.

The notice of the case of S. M. Winchester & Co against the Boyd & Baxter Furniture Company, which appeared in yesterday's CONSTITUTION, is calculated to mislead. The facts in the case are as follows: S. M. Winchester & Co. contracted to ship the Boyd & Baxter furniture factory a certain lot of walnut lumber. About the time the lumber was being shipped, the Boyd & Baxter furniture factory was notified in writing by a responsible concern east that S. M. Winchester & Co. had no title to the lumber, and if bought title to same would be contested. Under these circumstances, the Boyd & Baxter furniture factory declined to take the lumber unless secured by a satisfactory indemnity bond. This was not done, so the trade was declared off and the Boyd & Baxter furniture factory advised the Winchester company that the lumber was subject to their order. This is all there is of it.

SINCERITY

Is a chief business policy as truly as it is a prime social virtue. We are believed when we say that prices of many of our Overcoats and Suits are changed $5, $7.50 and $10 in your favor.

It wouldn't be easy to replace some of them for what we are getting; it wouldn't be easy to get profit out of others at present prices, if we had them to make again. We are selling at less than adequate recompense.

But we are livening up a usually slow time of the season with business we'd have to wait till next winter to get, if we weren't getting it now. It's good business wit to get it now.

Is even that all? Do you think it has no advertising value---that it isn't going to bring us a good many Spring Overcoat and Suit sales? Do you know how stores get customers? Do you know how people go again---how you go yourself---where you've had a generous money's worth?

Is it so strange that $5, $7.50, sometimes $10 difference in price should make us busy day after day? Four and five-leaved clover isn't picked up every day. Isn't, perhaps, the main reason, after all, the reason that is always conquering---that we have a name unlike any other for fashion and art in Over coat and Suit-making? The styles we show command admiration from January to December.
